Hogwarts Legacy is free on the Epic Games Store. Download it if you haven't already and claim a 60$ game for absolutely free. As simple as that. Is a limited time offer for PC only

A little bird sang to me also that possibly RDR2 would become free in the later days of December. Also many other HQ games. Like Terraria, Total War: Warhammer, Slime Rancher 2. And many others.

Now remember these are just speculations. But you can find an article from Gamerant that lists these other possible games, now I am not 100% sure if Gamerant is a credible source on these. But thus far I have no reason to doubt them (yet).

Yes, you are right. I know every game that will come out free during this december RDR2 will be the last one. I will make a thread whenever a game will be free :)

Please let a bro know if anybody here has any idea where a version of Hogwarp (Legacy Multiplayer Mod) is for the Epic version. So far answers on their discord seem to state that there has been no compatibility for it yet, but on the mod developer site there's a clear statement that it works on both PC platforms as of late. Apparently the reason it crashes out the scooped .exe is that it runs on a downgraded (un-updated) version of the title that, allegedly only Steam has, as Epic and Gamepass for PC have only recently instated the game.

I never ended up finishing this game, but I played it a good handful and enjoyed it. I think I was just into a few different games at the time or maybe multiple games I picked up came out around the time that it did. In any case, I had fun and will surely end up going back to finish it at some point. I'm pretty sure the devs are working on a sequel of some kind as well.
