I have a question for user Dank

Yesterday you gave me negative feedback. That's fine, I take criticism well.
I decided to write to you and find out what happened that caused me to earn negative feedback from you.
BUT it turns out you added me to your ignore list.

1. I don't even know you.
2. I haven't worked with you.

You gave me negative feedback and blocked me—like some little boy who's upset with life, you decided to act out and then immediately hide behind your ignore list.???

I'm just burning with curiosity.

Can you explain to me, as an adult, why I got a negative reputation from you?

Or are you one of those scammers I've had arguments with? And are you using your additional account on this forum?

I believe you deliberately added me to your ignore list so that I couldn't reply to you and give you a negative rating too.

I'm dying of curiosity???

They are just rage baiters who ignore and -rep, you probably interacted with his boyfriend Lowkey. Just random trolls. Ignore and move on you're just giving him what he wants.

In principle, that's how one of the moderators responded to me.
Maybe it's just one of some con Scammers friends.)

but I was just very curious)

He has a mental condition, he does this to everyone. Don't mind it.

The problem is that you give a f in the first place. It's just some random person on the forum, does your life depend on those pixels?

Neg reps happen all the time. No one takes them seriously unless you have a substantial amount.

Popularity virtually means nothing. Anyone can write anything they want (outside of marketplace-related comments) and leave a positive or negative rating. Credibility is the one that has meaning behind it and if anything, I'd be more concerned about that. People on here are just going to do that kind of stuff. It is what it is.
