

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Whats a behavior that instantly makes you lose respect for someone?

JoshAllen - December 18, 2025, 6:41 am

For me, it is people that are rude to staff at like at restaurants.

I hate people that treat these people poorly because they know they can't really defend themselves.

Countzer094 - December 18, 2025, 6:50 am people who talk shit constantly, or people who wine.

They're generally energy thieves and I just go wtf, why are you even talking shit.

mind ur own damned business like wow.

Deany - December 18, 2025, 7:09 am

Correct , being rude is not it.

Jwett - December 18, 2025, 8:14 am

I totally get what you're saying! It's wild how some folks feel entitled to be rude just because they can. It really brings down the vibe. And yes, negative people can just drain your energy! Anyone else remember the days when forums had more of these deep, yet casual chats? It was all about sharing little nuggets of wisdom sometimes!

JoshAllen - December 18, 2025, 8:32 am

(Dec 18, 2025 09:14 AM)Jwett Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Anyone else remember the days when forums had more of these deep, yet casual chats? It was all about sharing little nuggets of wisdom sometimes! There are still a lot of those conversations going on around here.

Jwett - December 18, 2025, 8:51 am

(Dec 18, 2025 09:32 AM)Josh Allen Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) There are still a lot of those conversations going on around here.

I guess in 2023 it just felt more 'alive'. To me at least..

JoshAllen - December 18, 2025, 8:52 am

(Dec 18, 2025 09:51 AM)Jwett Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I guess in 2023 it just felt more 'alive'. To me at least.. You would of have your mind blown in 2014 ish.

Jwett - December 18, 2025, 9:01 am

(Dec 18, 2025 09:52 AM)Josh Allen Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You would of have your mind blown in 2014 ish. What do you think happened to all the 'business' that used to be conducted and usefull people? It seems like the most activity here is the dang ebook sellers. :/

Jokerhusband - December 20, 2025, 1:51 am

I hate people who becomes angry very soon on small things...

JoshAllen - December 20, 2025, 5:48 am

(Dec 18, 2025 10:01 AM)Jwett Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What do you think happened to all the 'business' that used to be conducted and usefull people? It seems like the most activity here is the dang ebook sellers. :/

eBook sellers were always popular around here.

The Pact - December 21, 2025, 3:59 am

I can't stand self-righteous people

Self-righteousness comes from an unshakeable belief that their view is the only valid one.

That shuts down nuance, curiosity, and actual conversation.

They moralise instead of empathise. Instead of trying to understand context, they jump straight to judgment.

You can't simply have a different perspective.

That dynamic is exhausting.

They make genuine dialogue nearly impossible.

Rick4pex - December 21, 2025, 4:33 am

There are a bunch of people who always think that they are extremely intelligent and you are extremely stupid. Whenever you do something, they show up to tell you that you are doing it wrong and their way is the only way that works... In my country almost everyone is like that - "I have never done something like that, but..."

Whenever I meet these people they always make me aggressive and then they have no idea why im angry. ?

The methodology of "I have never done something like that, but..." can apply sometimes, but when you hear this kind of thing several times a day, every day, it really adds up...

RangoWorld - December 21, 2025, 6:42 am

Interesting question. For me it's when I see someone belittling someone lower than them in socioeconomic hierarchy. If you think you are some Pharaoh. Then you can't be with me.

JoshAllen - December 21, 2025, 9:54 am

(Dec 21, 2025 07:42 AM)RangoWorld Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Interesting question. For me it's when I see someone belittling someone lower than them in socioeconomic hierarchy. If you think you are some Pharaoh. Then you can't be with me.

I agree. I think judging people on that kind of stuff very lame. It doesn't affect the person they are.

DanCam83 - December 22, 2025, 7:32 am

People who are friendly in front of someone, BUT as soon as their back is turned, they talk sh*t! I can't stand that.

Oracle Services - December 22, 2025, 4:44 pm

(Dec 18, 2025 07:41 AM)Josh Allen Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) For me, it is people that are rude to staff at like at restaurants.

I hate people that treat these people poorly because they know they can't really defend themselves. Abusing one's position is a big red flag, it reminds me of something a "mentor figure" told me before:

If you want to understand an individual's potential for corruption when they reach a place of power, sit with them at a restaurant at the same table. If they take all the free tissue given at the table and put it in their bag, they would do the same with the resources they may access one day.

This example is more about corruption, which I believe is the super category of power abuse, and the only issue that if exists in a company/organization the only solution is to permanently end the business entity/brand.

MutatedArm0964 - December 23, 2025, 9:10 pm

I hate virtue signalers. Once I find out someone I know is a virtue signaler, the bridge is going up in flames.

cloakswitch - December 25, 2025, 1:51 am

Ungrateful individuals. I dislike them.

Riggs - December 25, 2025, 2:01 am

People that expect me to do their thinking for them.

For example if someone comes to me presenting a problem they need to solve and expect me to solve it for them without first making any effort whatsoever to try to solution the problem themselves.

I now distance myself from anyone that behaves this way, or otherwise defaults to a position of treating me as if my time isn't as important as their own.

Spore - December 25, 2025, 8:54 am

I've always said people that are rude to waiters/food workers are scum of the earth. No I've never worked in food industry

NotDisabledOrFat - December 25, 2025, 5:57 pm

happy diwali to you also!!!!