Thread: What you guys get for X-mas?

I got a PT01 Scratch, I really suck at it and should of thought of buying a 'SCRATCH' record before hand. I had a 45 copy of the AMEN BREAK fly off the table using the little center groove plug thingy, this shit is hard! lol

Thankfully I learned it can play big 33 records and I taped a Quarter on the needle arm to prevent skipping and pops I was getting on some older worn records.

This chick kills me... ?

Christmas felt a bit dry here in Sweden this year since we didn't get any proper snow in December, so the cozy feeling was missing. Still, even with the early darkness, the Christmas lights helped set some mood, and we made the best of it.

BiNBo - December 25, 2025, 1:21 pm

Got a new Unifi U7-Pro AP and I couldn't be more excited.

Bummer, we nvr get snow here in Florida. One year we had a freak snow fall mist. Nothing like real snow. We get hail during the summer though...

Never forget your parents, folks!

Try to give your parents a gift at Christmas, if you are able and can afford. The day will come when your parents aren't with you anymore.

Yes this is so true!

Bought my Mother Flowers and that was good enough for her.

I am sometimes scared of getting older due to the fact of losing my love ones over time. At times I feel life is a bit of a punishment considering how our feelings can be overwhelming to these situations. Maybe if I was another creature such as an insect it would be better since they seem so detached from death and do not have the trouble with emotions that humans face.

RangoWorld - December 26, 2025, 12:52 am

I got a few books couple days ago if that counts.

Good for you, giving flowers is a classic act of showing appreciation and love. Doesn't have to be expensive.

It's the thought behind that matters.

Especially when you get older and have everything you need. I mean I would buy her a new house but I can not afford that yet.

Well, I was kinda speeding on the highway when a truck ahead of me braked due to a pothole.. The car behind it also braked pretty hard..

I was behind it and braked hard too but hit the car. The brakes were pretty good and slowed down enough to just give me some bruises.

My bike and my helmet saved me from serious injury..

Yeah. Exactly my thoughts when I saw the truck and car braking hard ahead of me..

I only have myself to blame though. Thinking of writing a post about this..

Go for it if you think it will help you remember to ride safely, also a warning to others.

A couple philosophy, one fiction and one of lets say entrepreneurial nature.

Beyond Good and Evil
The Republic
The Odyssey
Millionaire Fastlane
