Thread: Epstein Files Unredacted ?

Chorozon - December 26, 2025, 12:13 am

Has anyone unredacted the epstein files that have been released recently ?

Anyone keeping up with it and got any revelations ?

RangoWorld - December 26, 2025, 12:54 am

Can general public even access unredacted files? Won't that be secretly kept within the State only?

People have been able to unredact files with a simple copy and paste

Bad effort by the feds redacting the info

I am definitely not keeping up with this anymore; the whole Epstein affair is overwhelming. It's everywhere and won't go away it seems.

Yea same here. It feels a bit distracting now and even like pointless (maybe the state wanted the public to feel this way).

I agree with that , apparently 3 main co conspirators are in the new files but the names were redacted , i would be interesting to see who it was

From what I've seen, the new Epstein documents are heavily redacted, so no major revelations so far — mostly bits of stuff that was already known. Some people online claim they managed to read through the redactions, but nothing really solid or confirmed. A few familiar names come up, but no proof of criminal activity. For now, it's mostly speculation. ?

Yeah it seems the other conspirators were the only names that were redacted correctly

The whole situation is just overwhelming and no real concrete moves on preperators... crazy world we live in

Someone messed up, or deliberately made it so people can unredact it. Trump's name is apparently the most mentioned name in the files.

From the prison video that had the editors meta data in it to the redactions that can be so easily reversed

What is going on in the FBI tech department

Someone had a conscience. It seems like they allowed a bunch of stuff to be unredacted with copy paste, but there is other stuff that hasn't been unredacted so someone let it be possible to deliberately un-redact certain things.
