Thread: Anyone willing to help? About to get doxed

So, I'm 17 year old and there's my brother who's even younger than me, I argued with a girl (long distance relationship) and she had my address (I have hers too), she probably leaked it to someone who's now threatening me with it on Discord, even if she denies it, I only leaked her name and I'm gonna be honest but you really can't compare it to leaking an address, I have more than 3 or 4 people now threatening me and everything, is there anyone willing to help? They're adults btw, not some teenagers trolling and it's pretty serious since they have my address.

Also, the retard already leaked half of it, and I heard there's someone else I have argued with in the past who's probably about to raid the whole server with all my information

Seems rough, not my area of expertise but posting here may support the thread a bit.

Best of luck to you, hope things work out.

sign out.

play a sport. Do something other than msg randos online.

don't log in again if you cant take even the most basic measures to protect yourself.

Considering you will be unbanned when your 18 (hopefully until then you have realised your mistakes and learnt from them) But i can give some advice to people who have the same problems as you have who read this:

99% of the people you meet online wont do anything except saying stuff and talking about doing bad things to you, just like you most dont have the most basic security or opsec in general meaning if they would want to do anything even remotely illegal you may just report them to the police :)

Also Binance told you something very important, i hope you read it before you got banned m8, this is the internet, you shouldnt care about what others say and even more important dont believe these people. Go out and live your real life other then sitting on the computer all day with a distant relationship which you most likely have never seen either ^^
