I think I have my dream job already. I collect/build model kits and resell them. Super fun tbh

LOUTTON - January 7, 2026, 11:37 am

My dream is want to work on building contractor.

Meeting many company clients and new people every project.

RangoWorld - January 8, 2026, 1:14 am

Dream job / work is to own an run a production house.

I feel very grateful that I have my dream job. I work as a manager in music for a very famous multi platinum artist. I travel alot, have traveled the globe, I get to experience alot of things that I would otherwise not of had the opportunity to, such as strictly only flying on Private Jets, very high end restaurants constantly, etc.

I worked hard to get here, but so do many other people that don't reach this stage.

Already satisfied with my current desk job & sent you a QL

Bastille - January 8, 2026, 4:28 am

Something related to IT, currently unemployed after a burnout, the market is quite fucked up right now, can't find a job despite years of experience and certs, companies are hesitant to hire due to AI.

Something in cybersecurity would be the best, but anything in IT is good, as long as I can spend time on computers doing IT stuff.

Good luck with the award, just QL'ed your post

I never understand why schools and the education system in general make people dream of being a slave?

I only dream about what I want to learn or create next not who or what I can earn money for.

Opting for slavery and dreaming of it, is something I feel is wrong.

diablospartan - January 8, 2026, 4:55 am

Well my dream its to travel around the world and i need a solid business

Curently i make nice money but i am far from my purpose

They push into children at the age of 6 onwards what job they dream off and this sticks in their brains.. they don't dream of work but they are made to start the journey to a career they decided at an age where they didn't even understand their skills and thats why so many children suffer believing they failed their dreams... Okey they may play doctor but if their not good at science nor enjoy it why continue? because they feel its their dream.

I believe children should explore their skills and being successful at something makes you enjoy it.

I am developer, malware is my love

Red-Baron - January 8, 2026, 11:38 am

I love beeing a software dev..it's my dream job. Inventing software and sell it. Never woke up last years and thought ' fuck I need to work and ' finally lunch time'. If I would ever think so I would quit.

My dream job is being an athlete, but its not an easy work to do ?

Jamika - January 10, 2026, 12:05 am

My dream job was to be a doctor, i graduated from vet medicine though

Btw ql you ?

Panagiota - January 12, 2026, 10:13 am

My dream job is no job, I would like to stay home and do nothing basically ?

Currently living it at the moment. Since the days of middle school/high school, I've always wanted to work for myself.. and while it initially started off being a spammer, I eventually transitioned that into more professional, white hat services that allowed me to register and open my own business. This has opened the door to more freedom, and more responsibilities.. and for the most part, I'm happy with my decision.

Are there days that I don't feel like working? Of course, but being able to work from home and choose the hours that I work, I enjoy it much more then having to get up in the morning and working an office gig or workhouse job.

My dream has always been to become a philanthropic. Due to my past, I've become desensitized with a lot of emotions especially empathy and just being able to enjoy/appreciate a gift is hard for me. But when I'm the person giving; It feels like it restores this, this void.

When I was younger, my dream was to become a pilot, travel the world, and take my parents wherever they wanted to go.

?ystem - January 21, 2026, 4:43 pm

My dream job would either be an Astronomer or a Meteorologist, but I accepted a long time ago that I couldn't do either of those jobs professionally and should just have them be a hobby. Less stress.

BlackSoulZN5006 - January 23, 2026, 8:24 am

Cybersecurity Engineer or something with Red Team

LiNixx - January 23, 2026, 10:36 am

I'm aiming for balance, growth, and stability. I'm making progress by being more intentional with my time and priorities.

Cosa Nostra - January 25, 2026, 1:03 am wanna be a full-time trader. Right now I'm just learning, practicing on a demo, and tracking my progress. Taking it slow and staying consistent so I can actually make it work someday.

I really just don't feel like answering this question right now, but I'm going to bump this because this member needs to get his QL award so he can complete his promised contest and give the winner their prize.

Interesting Approach in a thread to RL choices !

Hmmm, lets see :

I would do anything , literally anything to give financial freedom to the people I care about !

Kind of don't have an accurate answer to your question sir BUT I can tell you what I don't prefer which is Desk jobs ..

Interesting ! Did you choose to do this or it just happened to be something you are good at and you are making money from ?

Miles Morales - March 29, 2026, 9:32 pm

Researcher/Engineer

But won't happen unfortunately
