Thread: Blessed With A Baby Boy - Thank You HF Family ?

eXceptional - January 10, 2026, 11:19 am

Hello HackForums family,

I wanted to take a moment to share a very personal and meaningful update.

My wife Shizuka has safely delivered our baby boy. Both mother and child are doing well, and we are incredibly grateful for that. This is a special milestone for our family, as our first son is now over 4 years old and stepping into the role of an elder brother.

Moments like these quietly remind you how fragile and precious life truly is. No matter how busy or complex things get, family and health always come first.

Over the years, HackForums has been more than just a forum to me. It has been a place of learning, growth, and genuine human interaction. I sincerely thank this community for being part of the journey, whether through shared discussions, advice, or simple conversations.

Wishing everyone here good health, peace, and success in their own lives.

Thank you for reading.

These moments are memorable. Yes bro. When I had the first baby boy I never knew how it felt but this time it's different. More sense on responsibility, more care, more love, everything is extra this time. I'm capturing it all this time.
