

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: What games are you playing these days?

casperr - January 19, 2026, 5:46 am

I'm having a hard time finding good games lately.

Right now I play a bit of Call of Duty, some CS, and a few simulator games here and there.

What are you guys playing these days? Any recommendations?

I7irewolf - January 20, 2026, 9:44 am

If you're a fan of zombie games, I would recommend Left 4 Dead. Although it was released ages ago, it still is considered a classic in the community. Huge player base still active there. If you would like something newer then... Back 4 Blood, not as popular and development has been discontinued, but it is a game I constantly play myself. It has a deck builder and randomized corruption in each playthrough. If you like challenges, I would say to go with B4B and L4D for nostalgia.

SIM-5733294 - January 20, 2026, 9:23 pm

I ended up getting CIV 6 for free through epic and that's been taking a lot of my gaming time. I love the fact that there are many ways to win and every game feels like a new game with the amount of CIVs available.

Also AOE2 is still a lot of fun for me. campaign is great to help you get back into it, and the scenarios are all really well done. Multiplayer is a lot of fun too if you are somewhat good at the game. Not really recommended unless you have a good understanding of the fundamentals

Try out some RTS games, they can be a real time sink.

MoOne - January 21, 2026, 3:33 am

I downloaded BO3 the other day again just to play zombies. Love that game mode

casperr - January 21, 2026, 8:54 am

(Jan 20, 2026 10:44 AM)I7irewolf Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) If you're a fan of zombie games, I would recommend Left 4 Dead. Although it was released ages ago, it still is considered a classic in the community. Huge player base still active there. If you would like something newer then... Back 4 Blood, not as popular and development has been discontinued, but it is a game I constantly play myself. It has a deck builder and randomized corruption in each playthrough. If you like challenges, I would say to go with B4B and L4D for nostalgia.

I played Left 4 Dead when I was a kid, might give it another try for nostalgia. I'm not really into zombie games these days, but thanks for the suggestion (Jan 20, 2026 10:23 PM)Figgueh Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I ended up getting CIV 6 for free through epic and that's been taking a lot of my gaming time. I love the fact that there are many ways to win and every game feels like a new game with the amount of CIVs available.

Also AOE2 is still a lot of fun for me. campaign is great to help you get back into it, and the scenarios are all really well done. Multiplayer is a lot of fun too if you are somewhat good at the game. Not really recommended unless you have a good understanding of the fundamentals

Try out some RTS games, they can be a real time sink.

I got CIV 6 for free on Epic but haven't really gotten into it yet. RTS games are cool, I'm just not sure I have the time to dive into them. Thanks for the recommendation.

(Jan 21, 2026 04:33 AM)MoOne Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I downloaded BO3 the other day again just to play zombies. Love that game mode Zombies were never really my thing, especially BO3, but thanks anyway.

reroveD - January 21, 2026, 7:54 pm

I play CS2 ??

I've been playing CS since CS1.6

JoseMar - January 22, 2026, 3:37 am

I used to play Call of Duty Mobile for years. I miss it, but I have other priorities in life now.??

DemonAsylum - January 30, 2026, 4:47 pm

Not a whole lot for me. Recent months have been mainly Apex Legends and Diablo 4. I'm probably done with Diablo 4 until the new expansion comes out in April though. I randomly hop on a couple of different single player games when I'm feeling them as well. OSRS is always something I'm off/on with too.