

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Singleplayer or Multiplayer

trexxg - January 26, 2026, 7:09 am

Which do you enjoy more nowadays?

casperr - January 26, 2026, 7:38 am

I enjoy both.

In shooters games, I usually prefer multiplayer because it's more intense, competitive, and stays interesting over time.

But in games with strong stories like Far Cry, GTA, Red Dead Redemption 2, and Assassin's Creed, I really enjoy the story mode it feels like playing through a movie.

axaxax - January 26, 2026, 4:02 pm

single player - Uncharted or Last of Us type stuff

PISTONZ - January 27, 2026, 6:53 am

Multiplayer.

Team playing, more enjoying rather single playing.

DemonAsylum - January 30, 2026, 12:15 am

I don't play a huge variety of games nowadays, but the majority of time I've spent gaming for a while now has been on multiplayer games so I guess that wins by default. That isn't to say I'm always playing with other people though. Obviously if I'm playing a game like Apex Legends which is a BR then it means I am playing with others, but if I'm playing Diablo 4 for example, I may be doing content by myself. It's been a bit since I've really gotten sucked into a single player game, but make no mistake, some of my favorite games and those that I'm most excited to have come out are single player.