WoW's Best Housing Decorators Will Soon Go Head-To-Head

World of Warcraft's new player-housing system allows for all kinds of creativity, and soon some of Azeroth's best interior decorators will go head-to-head to show what's possible. Blizzard announced it will be hosting a new competition called Azeroth Interiors starting on February 17, where six teams of two will compete to build awe-inspiring homes that best exemplify "the spirit of Azeroth and World of Warcraft." On Feb 17, housing becomes a spectator sport. Tune in to see which creators are crowned for legendary room building in Azeroth Interiors! Find out more ? <https://t.co/ZtvKuKaQUZ>

I've been watching some people decorate their house and I got to say it looks pretty cool.

Not that familiar with the feature however but it's something the community has been wanting for years.

Does anyone know if this is like in open world or is it still the same as it was in an instance area?

I'm not personally into WoW, but it's always cool to see community events like this and even more so that have official support from the devs. I've seen similar contests for other games and or just scenarios where players submit their buildings, bases, decorations, etc that they do in the game for a chance to be showcased and get prizes.
