

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Doom Developer Teases "A Lot Coming Up This Week" As Studio Celebrates 35th Annivers

Stanley - February 2, 2026, 2:35 pm

Doom Developer Teases "A Lot Coming Up This Week" As Studio Celebrates 35th Annivers

Doom and Wolfenstein creators id Software is celebrating its 35th anniversary, with studio director Marty Stratton teasing some announcements during the momentous occasion. Stratton, in a new video from the studio marking the anniversary, vaguely mentions that the team have "a lot coming up this week to celebrate with all of you", continuing on to say that "throughout the years we'll be celebrating this anniversary, and a lot of other anniversaries." The studio's X account also shared a promotional image for the anniversary, depicting the Doom Slayer from the studio's most recent title, Doom: The Dark Ages. Stratton and game director Hugo Martin thanked the studio's dedicated fanbase, while also praising id as a "visionary studio" and thanking its original co-founders. "We always say we stand on the shoulders of giants," Stratton concluded. Continue Reading at GameSpot

<https://www.gamespot.com/articles/doom-developer-teases-a-lot-coming-up-this-week-as-studio-celebrates-35th-anniversary/1100-6537830/?ftag=CAD-01-10abi2f>