

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Polkadot

MrCreepy - February 2, 2026, 9:50 pm

Do you see any price action on Polkadot in March after the update? Or is it just a dead project?

SIM-4331310 - February 2, 2026, 10:03 pm

Looks like it's trying to find it's way up again

Dax - February 3, 2026, 2:05 am

Everything is a dead project except top 10s.

Costanza - February 4, 2026, 2:41 pm

(Feb 3, 2026 03:05 AM)Dax Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Everything is a dead project except top 10s.
TBF Everything but btc been bleeding since 2021. so all are dead but btc

Omniscient - February 4, 2026, 2:46 pm

Not sure the crypto moon boys have much left in them to keep up the pump and dumps.

Either you've made it by now or you've lost it all.

The cycle appears broken. IMHO it's the ETF's this time which have killed it off. Not to mention people tend to catch on to how much of the market is just a giant scam (NFT's and SOL Meme Coins).

In the end, crypto will be mostly about Bitcoin and everything else an afterthought.

SUI-3183372 - February 4, 2026, 4:42 pm

Smart contract deployments and meaningful applications utilizing this update are close to none. Think everyone was hoping to see some momentum after this update, for builders to have built on testnet in preparation to deploy to mainnet upon update, but that's not the case seemingly.

Polkadot team have addressed the lack of interest in smart contracts with a generic "this does not shake our resolve" statement.