Thread: If You Could Travel Anywhere Right Now, Where Would You Go?

R5N3T - February 3, 2026, 8:19 pm

Hey everyone,

Let's daydream a little! If money, time, and all obstacles didn't exist, where would you travel right now?

I've been thinking about Japan for its food and cherry blossoms. What about you?

xicor1 - February 3, 2026, 8:37 pm

Japan

Hackers - February 3, 2026, 8:50 pm

Japan is great, but been a long time since I went. Would like to go again sometime.

Maybe a nice beach resort somewhere, been to many places so I'm open to suggestions. Otherwise since you say no obstacles or time or money, then maybe some distant planet across the galaxy :)

You should definitely try visiting my country too, Indonesia, especially the city of Bali. It's famous for its beautiful beaches, amazing culture, and delicious food. I think you'd really enjoy the experience, and there's so much to explore!

I would like to take a short sightseeing to Greenland, while it's still independent. lol

Just kidding, I would visit Greenland because of its vastness. First experience the populated areas and their culture, and then put my adventure boots on and walk into the icefields.

Who knows what's hidden under the ice, really?

Would love to visit lots of other places also, but Greenland would definitely be cool.

RangoWorld - February 5, 2026, 10:43 am

I would to go Wellington, New Zealand. Away from the world for a bit but still connected

Dear i would travel somewhere where humans don't exist. I am sick and tired of all the lies and fakeness of this world.

RiveR29 - February 23, 2026, 4:38 am

Call me weird but to be honest I would travel to Lapland in Finland. (during summer) But during winter I would prefer a more warmer climate.

Maybe Greece or Spain. maybe Portugal, just to travel with a van or just with a rucksack on my back, not worrying about life of bills.
