You %100 have worms.

When was your last parasite detox?

I prefer the cloves / black walnut / wormwood after a 3 day fast with the charcoal binder.

Oil of oregano on an empty stomach for a week (with steady hydration works as well)

It's alright but most engineered things specific to "parasite" cleanse typically don't have all of what you need.

Tons of ways to go about it but if you've stopped for year(s) you might wanna run it back og.

Is this your first time learning about these things?

Search it up, these parasites can cause cancer faster than the state of California can declare it.

Truer words have never been spoken.

Just saw this thread and damn is this true? Too lazy to research but would likely want to hear an advice from someone who specially mentioned it. Never heard of parasite detox yet my entire life.

Your laziness will be the death of you.

Simple search will provide you with basic harms of parasites.

Another simple search will provide you with ailments.

Wormwood / Black Walnut / Cloves / Etc.

See about different binders as well.

I've done a lot of detox but never a parasite one. I might have to look into this so I can improve my health a little bit more.

Quick my worms are heading for the mainframe, theyre crawling through my backdoor!!

Haha jokes aside my families old boss has the worst heartburn for years and turns out it was caused by a parasite he picked up years earlier on a vacation overseas.

All the herbs you said are great but be careful with straight oregano oil, it's powerful and can burn/irritate ya. Mix it very well with something that it can emulsify in

Everything in moderation.
