Thank you for the warning. I really appreciate you sharing your experience and I will be more careful and make sure to double-check everything before using any project from there.

Totally makes sense, i assumed that's the case but don't know how to check myself.

That make sense for all free products - although in this space, paying for one doesn't guarantee anything either lol

I don't think you'll find a good one with Chrome support these days. They've started changing their security too often. It's 100% Nullpoint-Stealer-infected. Don't use it!

Search the forums; there's PHANTOM STEALER.
