Thread: [\[JV\] My Whitehat GPT Network Similar To SwagBucks | Looking For Partners](#)

charlesanthony - February 6, 2026, 11:25 pm

I used to run a Get Paid To network about 20 years ago earning almost 5 figures my first month as a secret shopper network.

I'm talking about another opportunity now.
I have a domain name registered already for the company.

The website should be similar to SwagBucks and I start by calling CPA networks to get acquainted with them to get incentivized CPA offers on our GPT network.

We'll pay a user for their participation in filling out an incentivized CPA offer and reward them with points where they will be able to cash out for currency, cryptocurrency, stock, electronics, or items.

For example, they fill out an incentivized CPA offer that pays us $25 and we reward them with $5-10 in points equivalence.

I need the website and backend developed. If you come on as a web developer, you will be working for equity. I will eventually form the LLC but we may operate as a "Partnership" for now.

We can work on a marketing plan together. Just DM me. I'll disclose the domain to you.

Let me know if you want to participate. Cheers.

Come on-board, my idea is swag bucks and you have to figure out the marketing as well as develop and produce the entire product, minus cold calling CPA networks who readily accept business from almost anywhere/anyone.

Let's not forget that also no formal contract or business is going to be in place while you build my business for me. Sounds too good to pass up. In reality if you could build a clean and operational GPT site they take 90% of the earnings from ad walls. They're also all starting to add lootboxes and gambling on their sites so anything members do earn gets gambled away and you get 100%.
