Sounds interesting but nothing proving itself.

I don't want a vouch copy but think you should provide a trusted user with access to test on their own account.

Of course, I won't provide any "copy" to anyone, and I won't even give out my website for testing

(because it's possible to copy the logic and understand how the bypass works).
But I only conduct deal through MM/Escrow—because my method works perfectly.

Okey, understand your point of view.

Buyers use escrow 100% and be sure it works before releasing the funds. User joins with big claims, high prices and is a huge potential scam risk.

Good luck with sales
