I'm the first user for entry this contest.. thank. You for the contest guys

This my story :

Before I got married, one Valentine's Day I had a crush on a friend, but I was too nervous to give her the chocolates myself. So I asked another female friend to pass them to her for me.

Long story short, it turned out the friend who delivered the chocolates was actually the one who liked me, and the girl I had a crush on already had a boyfriend. Instead of ending up alone, I started getting close to the friend I trusted with the chocolates — and now she's my wife hehe ?

I use translate sorry my English is very bad

Valentine's Day I'll Never Forget

This is a REAL story of mine, it happened many years ago, God and even now when I remember it I laugh like an idiot in the house?:

In my youth, I was a real menace. I went to a Valentine's Day disco, and in the place where I'm from there were 2 twin girls, very very beautiful,? you could not tell them apart AT ALL, Blonde blue eyes,? 2 years younger than me.

I hooked up with one, and we went to my place, with such a craving, to eat her alive so I won't say something else,? while I was undressing her I felt something strange, but when I took her pants and the rest off, she smelled so strong...??? and the hair she had was so big that I had never seen something like that in my life.?

But the craving being too big and how beautiful she was, I took her and we got into the shower to wash ourselves (or to wash her, better said) ? I was shaved and when she saw me shaved, she even told me (very surprised) that she didn't know she had to shave and she agreed for me to shave her,??? with the trimmer that I used to shave myself.

After that everything was fine.?? But brother, this shocked me my whole life, and even today I remember it and every year on Valentine's Day ?

So here's a weird story that happened to me on Valentine's Day, back in high school. I had a crush on a girl in my class she was a year younger than me, but she was so cute. The way she walked would literally drive me crazy. I had this group of friends who were really bold, and they could talk to girls even five years older than us. They knew I had a thing for this girl, so they decided to set me up.

After our morning assembly on Valentine's Day, they told me we had a chemistry lab test and that we should head to the lab. I followed them, but once we got there, I froze. You see, I'm the shy type I can barely speak to girls without tripping over my words. And now, here I was, facing the biggest challenge of my life to confessing my feelings to her.

I completely messed up. I didn't know where to start, what to say I was sweating and stammering. Then, out of nowhere, she grabs me and says, "My friends already spoke to me on your behalf. I know you're nervous and overwhelmed." I was in shock, thinking(Why would they do that? I should've been the one to speak up!)

I finally mustered the courage to ask her, "Can I give you a hug?" She said yes, and let me tell you guys it lasted a whole minute. It felt like the weight of the world lifted off my shoulders. After that, we headed back to class.

By the end of the day, I got my first kiss. We smooched, and it was honestly crazy. To this day, when I catch up with my friends at alumni reunions, we all joke about that day. I'll never forget it.

2 year's ago, Valentine's Day, I accidentally sent flowers to the wrong girl.

Panicking, I called the contacted her to apologize.

She laughed and said, "It's okay... my boyfriend forgot."

We talked for ten minutes.

By the end of the call, she said, "So... same time next year?"

Plot twist, we've been very good friends ever since.

A very long time ago, my best friend and I had a double date for Valentine's Day with two girls we knew from school. Like this year, Valentine's Day was on a Saturday. We were going to meet in front of the cinema at 2 to watch a movie and then planned to walk around the city or along the beach.

It was a very cold year, and that weekend we had a lot of snow, so the streets were covered with a thick layer. My best friend and I arrived at the cinema around 1 because we didn't want to be late and wanted to arrange the tickets and candy before the girls arrived.

Shortly after we got there, a huge snowball fight erupted in front of the cinema. I'm talking about at least 50–100 people. Two groups formed, and it was one side of the street against the other. We both joined in, and before we knew it we were heavily invested in the snowball fight, laughing our asses off at one point when my friend threw this huge snowball that splashed someone right in the face.

As time went on, it was well past 2 o'clock before we realized that we had, in fact, forgotten our dates. Our initial reaction was, "Oh well," but we did end up texting one of the girls to explain what happened and apologize. She responded laughing, saying they had also gotten caught up in the snowball fight at some point but went home earlier because her friend got hit in the face and was in pain.
