Thread: locating somone exact location

Hackathong - February 14, 2026, 6:17 pm is it hard to locate someone exact location like the coordinates now just the city or district. my knowledge are limited the ways i knew the user will have to give access if you send someone's a link which can be very suspicious. is there a way that can be more subtle?

Very funny but DramaKing is right. Lol. You can just plainly add on Facebook and socialize with your target to gather information instead of doing illegal. But you know there is a tool called TheHarvester which can take advantage how search engines are used, just study how it works and you are good to go.

The is also good place here in the forum called Market if you are desperate and you can spend a dime OP on tools.

You could make a website and get them to accept use HTML5 to get exact location, which will give you exact location.
