

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Infy Hackers Resume Operations with New C2 Servers After Iran Internet Blackout Ends

Stanley - February 14, 2026, 8:20 pm

Infy Hackers Resume Operations with New C2 Servers After Iran Internet Blackout Ends

The elusive Iranian threat group known as Infy (aka Prince of Persia) has evolved its tactics as part of efforts to hide its tracks, even as it readied new command-and-control (C2) infrastructure coinciding with the end of the widespread internet blackout the regime imposed at the start of January 2026.

"The threat actor stopped maintaining its C2 servers on January 8 for the first time since we

<https://thehackernews.com/2026/02/infy-hackers-resume-operations-with-new.html>

shakur123 - February 14, 2026, 9:50 pm

Not surprising to see Infy resurface so quickly after the blackout. Groups with long-term infrastructure discipline don't just disappear — they adapt.

HALx86 - February 15, 2026, 1:09 pm

I'm surprised a possible government-linked APT wasn't allowed out of the internet blackout. Maybe this shows details on the relationship of this group and the regime.