

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Konami Hints At "Numerous" Castlevania Projects In The Works

Stanley - February 14, 2026, 10:55 pm

Konami Hints At "Numerous" Castlevania Projects In The Works

Prior to this week's announcement of Castlevania: Belmont's Curse during Sony's State of Play, there hadn't been a new Castlevania console game since Castlevania: Lords of Shadow 2 in 2014. Now, Konami has shared a message for fans about the future of Castlevania while teasing "numerous projects" in the works. This year marks the 40th anniversary of the original Castlevania, which debuted in 1986. Konami shared the following announcement on the franchise's 40th anniversary page, which confirms that Belmont's Curse is just the beginning of the Belmont family's big comeback. "The doors of Castlevania open once more," wrote Konami. "This year marks the 40th anniversary since the original Akumajo Dracula first saw the light of day. In this commemorative year, Castlevania will be revived. First up is this title, Castlevania: Belmont's Curse ... This is the beginning of numerous new products around Castlevania. Look forward to the return of the magnificent 'nightmare' lurking in the darkness."Continue Reading at GameSpot

<https://www.gamespot.com/articles/konami-hints-at-numerous-castlevania-projects-in-the-works/1100-6538187/?ftag=CAD-01-10abi2f>

Aeowulf - February 15, 2026, 4:26 am

Numerous.... just start with one. Makes no sense to go from none to multiple. Fans usually ae happy with just 1. Are we sacrificing the whole for the parts?

shakur123 - February 15, 2026, 6:42 am

Awesome news!! i just LOVE Castlevania games hoping they delivered good games soon