Thread: Whats a Random Skill Youre Surprisingly Good At?

R5N3T - February 22, 2026, 9:07 pm

We all probably have some unexpected skills.

Maybe you're great at math, good at remembering faces, fixing things, negotiating prices, or cooking like a pro.

What about you?

As for me... I've been told I'm pretty good at charming women hahaha

Omega Sapien - February 22, 2026, 9:09 pm

Reading. My reading level is way above average.

I'm sure you must be very smart because you love reading.

lilnutsak88 - February 22, 2026, 11:24 pm

im excellent at reading peoples intentions from body language.

Deany - February 22, 2026, 11:34 pm

I'm amazing at building box forts. In other words spending countless money on model kits

Maharlika - February 22, 2026, 11:42 pm

Does always losing at gamble considered a random skill? If it is it's my skill

Lol, is not skill ?

I mean i always like to think my "skill" is pretty much useless in any other setting but I know how to read people.

Like their actions and I can pretty well tell their stress or anxiety levels just by looking at them. Which works great for me cuz I work in security.

But other than that I feel like it is useless. I am also pretty good with mechanical things. I love to tinker with pneumatics and things like that. (mostly Airsoft guns)

But I am also interested to start looking into real guns too. just the way they work and all that.

I think your skill in reading people is really good and it fits well with your job. That's cool, bro.

Yeah, I know it is pretty useful in my line of work.

Just feels like I put all my skill points into perception tbh ?

Wow, you have a really good talent!

Omega Sapien - February 23, 2026, 9:07 am

I thought of another one. I'm really good at quitting things. I can quit anything no problem. Except vaping.

Wow, you'd be perfect for working in security systems, like risk analysis, surveillance, or intelligence roles

waraktis - February 24, 2026, 1:23 am

Good at installing games at friends pcs and playing taxi old school game
