Thread: Travel around world

Hi everyone,

I'm so tired from work lately and really feel like taking a break.

If you could travel anywhere in the world right now, where would you go and why?

Would you choose a place for its natural beauty, cultural experiences, adventure, food, or to simply relax?

Share what draws you to that destination, and if you've been there before, what made it special.

I'd love to hear about both dream destinations and favourite travel memories from people around the world.

Share your comments....

For me, as I have always wanted to live abroad specifically Japan. And no not for the anime or any other "main-stream" type reasons.

But for the culture, scenery, the way people live modestly etc. I would love every second of my life there, just for the old culture, and the folklore way of livin.

We Finns or more like some of us live very close to nature, and we live through folklore in a way that we have deities for almost everything, like Japan has.

We have house elves, the god of forests, god of sky, sea, etc. Almost everything has a deity or a god in Finnish old folklore.

So I guess I would find my life to be much more at peace in Japan, because I am just about McFuckn had it with the way Finland is going.

Great!!

I get what you mean about being drawn to a different culture when you feel disconnected from your own surroundings. Japan has a deep respect for tradition and nature, which is really admirable. At the same time, I hope you're able to find some peace wherever you are, too. Sometimes, the change we need starts within us as well.

Have you ever visited Japan, or is it still a dream for now?

I really want to go to Mecca with my wife and children. I want to worship there, and I hope I will be blessed with the means to travel there

If I could travel anywhere right now, I'd probably choose somewhere with nature, peace and good food. Maybe Thailand or somewhere with a similar vibe. I'd love to relax, enjoy beautiful views, eat amazing local food ,They have some pretty weird food there too, but that's part of the experience ?

As of now it seems like an never ending dream. Traveling there is extremely expensive, and my salary is extremely bad.

But hey you always have to have dreams to keep you going. So maybe someday I atleast get the chance to visit.

Depends what you want to do.

There is many places and different activities around the world.

You like beaches? Your like mountains? You like sun or snow? Where you live now?

If you give us more info, we can recommend you many things and places!

I love beaches and warm weather ? I'm not really a fan of snow. I enjoy relaxing by the sea, swimming, and trying local food. I also like a bit of adventure, like boat trips or hiking with nice views, chilling with chilled beers. sunset on beaches

I'm currently living in East Asia, so I'd prefer somewhere with a different climate and culture. My budget is mid-range, and I'm planning to travel for about a week.

What would you recommend?

That's understandable. Travelling can be expensive, but maybe you could start small — saving a little each month or looking for travel deals. Even short trips closer to home can keep the dream alive. You never know where you'll be in a few years. Good Luck MATE !! (^_^)
