JackReacher RAT setupJackReacher RAT Setup Services & Mentorship

Introduction

Welcome to my Remote Administrator Tools (RAT) setup thread on HackForum. I specialize in helping non-technical users and beginners get started with RATs. Whether you need an older or a new RAT, I'll assess feasibility, provide the completed setup, and even mentor you on crypting, deployment, and monetization strategies.

Service Packages

Basic Package – $20

- Initial environment setup

- Remote desktop access configuration

- Basic walkthrough of the setup

Standard Package – $60

Full environment setup

- Remote desktop access configuration

- Basic protection/obfuscation layer

- Overview session explaining configuration choices

Mentorship & Consulting (Custom Pricing) Private Mentorship Program – Price on Request

Includes one-on-one guidance covering:

- Understanding how remote administration environments are structured

- Compilation and configuration concepts (theory-based)

- Protection and evasion fundamentals (high-level)

- Ethical and legal considerations

- Monetization concepts discussed theoretically

Mentorship is offered in hourly sessions or bundled packages, depending on client needs.

OP says to do payment and communication off-site, but I want to add a reminder that every transaction requires a contract.

Yeah, I wouldn't trust someone who joined a month ago and started providing a service. Not to mention, it's an expensive one for such a dead ass service.

Hello, I don't believe I have violated any forum rules by including my offline contact information in the thread. I have responsibilities outside the forum and am not online here at all times. All transactions will be conducted directly on the forum, and a middleman (MM) is available upon client request. At no point did I state that payments or official communication must take place offsite.

Please carry out your due diligence accordingly.

This appears to be sales trashing, which is not permitted. I am not here to compete on pricing with anyone. My focus is on providing a high-quality service. Additionally, this is not a simple "money-making method" commonly sold around the forum. I have also seen users who registered and started their business on the same day and are still considered trusted, so I do not understand why my situation is being treated differently.

Because you're doing basic things for people that anyone could easily figure out or search for and charging a premium for it. Just friendly advice, but by all means, charge crazy prices.

And how is it that you know the sales trashing rule but think it's perfectly acceptable for a non-upgraded member to direct other members to contact you off-site. If you're not online much, set email notifications. Oh, my bad, that feature requires upgrading. Upgrading tells people that even though you're new, you're invested in the site.

I am sure someone with at least 10 IQ can figure out how to do the exact same thing you offer, but for free. You already broke the rules several times, if I were you, I would've just close that thread and call it a day.
