Hi everyone,

I watched The Time Machine (movie)yesterday. Crazy movie, mate, made me think a lot about time, destiny, and life. You should watch it too.

It made me think about what if you travelled to the future and saw that you became rich and successful but lost close friends, family time, and peace of mind, no one is there at your end time. Would you still feel proud of that version of yourself, or would you want to come back and change your priorities?

Give your opinion about the same !!

Time travel into the future requires assistance from the three ghosts of Christmas pasts, like Ebenezer Scrooge. Without them, it can't be done. ?

For me personally, I don't think any amount of money or success would make up for losing friends or family.

I will definitely watch the movie. Thank you for recommending. ?
