Thread: Is there a chance to WW3

aerozprit - March 2, 2026, 7:57 am

Because the global situation is what it is, do you guys think there is a change for world war 3 in the future?

Rahul007rhp - March 2, 2026, 8:13 am

I guess we are pretty close to ww3 a small escalation could lead to a full scale war.
Like lets say iran attacks usa aircraft carrier and there are casualties

How the conflict could escalate to the European territory?

Stoke - March 2, 2026, 9:52 am

If nuclear power plants start getting hit, I can imagine that'd be a step towards it.

Nothing ever happens though.

With what? I'm not saying that the Abraham Lincoln is an invulnerable supercarrier, but the US Navy can defend against Iran's missiles just fine. And even if Trump follows through on his threat to wreak previously unseen destruction, a world war would require Iran to have alliesIran's only real ally is China, which I'm betting will merely sit on the sidelines and loudly protest that any attack on the Iranian régime's sovereignty is bad.

Yeah this might be right. I did not consider this. Interesting point need to make more research.

Probably China will just laugh and protest like u said and sell guns to Iran to get more money.

jellyhat - March 2, 2026, 2:52 pm

There will be no WW3. They've abandoned numbered releases and switched to a live service model with seasonal events.

Formant - March 2, 2026, 2:59 pm

I always find it funny whenever there is any type of escalation in the world, people jump to the WW3 conclusion. Sure there's a chance, anything is possible. What do you want to do about it? The doomsday clock was recently updated in January, but so what? All this stuff is out of our control.

I'll be straight here, we have been in war since 2014. Most of our governments just did not accept it until 2022.

And most of this conflict has been brewing since the late 1990's and early 2000's.

It all started with the Russian invasion of Krim, and from there it has been a downhill slippery slope.

So I would not be surprised that we would end up in a global conflict. At this point it feels more like inevitability than a distant chance.

But that is just my take on it, and I hope I am as wrong as one could be.

I read somewhere the UK & France are planning to jump into war supporting USA. Plus the nato article could activate right if IRAN attacks some nato nation i guess

This is interesting. And yes then the other nato countries will be included to the war. Maybe this is what USA wants. Because the contracts clues every nato country to it. It leads to East versus West situation.

Yeah this might be true

IMO there's no chance for WW3 most countries have nukes we'd be gone all the leaders already know this

This is the realest comment

Nothing ever happens.

We will see how this situation will unfold, saying it will be ww3 or not is not really possible, we are closer then ever and well as long as nothing hits turkey for example, we wont have nato involved.

Jean Bon - March 4, 2026, 9:49 am

I don't beleive it could end in ww3, china doesn't seems to be involve and help Iran.

The only way it could have been, if muslims community massively support Iran (despite the shia sunni) but for some reasons Iran choose to bomb some muslims countries.

StarZ - March 4, 2026, 10:48 am

I believe it is a possibility, not a realistic one however. It would require big brother China to start swinging. And I don't think they want the smoke.

ozycmr - March 4, 2026, 11:09 am

it cant be possible

Yeah I think that nobody want the bigger conflict not Nato or the middle east or the russian.

VPSTLab - March 5, 2026, 3:10 am always feels like it's right around the corner when you look at ukraine, israel, china tensions. my dad lived through the cuban missile crisis and said everyone thought it was over then too. history says we dodge the big one but pay in smaller wars. doesn't make sleeping easier though. what do you think tips it over the edge?

I N C R E D I B L E - March 5, 2026, 4:44 am

There won't be a WW3 anytime soon. its all propaganda.

Yeah the change is real. I think that probably ww3 will not happen in 2020 century. But the bigger conflict than, the one that is now, will be possible

I still think there is a change NATO will be included to the war, but MAYBE for a now, they think that they should do nothing.

Yeah, but I think that everything will turn okay after all when the time goes on.

a possibility also. Maybe the history books will tell it to us in the future

Hackers - March 6, 2026, 6:20 am

Eh. I think China and RU are looking at how Iran was decimated, and Iran's AA and weaponry is very similar to what RU and CN have, or at least more similar than what the USA has. I don't think they'll do anything because they want oil and trade, not political statements. China and RU will be fine as long as they have a path forward. For example, the US just gave RU a waiver to sell oil to India due to Iran situation.

China has not been fully tested and their Taiwan plans are less confident now because of the showcase we put on in Iran. People are not respecting the fact that we sent a tiny % of our military and wiped an entire Navy and Air Force in the first 3 days of the special military operation. Iran has been responsible for countless proxy wars, and they send their tech to many other countries... and we completely fucking rocked them without a sweat.

I think the Iran operation could potentially make the world safer, ironically, because other countries have been reminded of US dominance. Not only that, we didn't go after an innocent country, we took out a terrorist and his regime of suicidal anti-west killers. Many are cheering silently, and many that aren't are understanding that the world order has a lot of space between the top and their place.

Actually this helped me a lot to think the situation from totally different lens. Good post! You are right about that the RU and CN probably won't be do anything because after all Iran uses chinese weapons because China is the weapon seller for Iran.
