As the title suggests, do you think personal hobbies play a role in monetization methods or do you feel like focusing on monetization from hobbies is what eventually kills the idea of them being considered hobbies

I don't think so. If a hobby can make money, that would actually be very enjoyable. Working on something you love doesn't feel exhausting because it's fun

If they align yes. I sell and collect rare collectibles. Best of both worlds.

Find a job you enjoy doing, and you will never have to work a day in your life.

Monetization of hobbies I believe directly fits into this quote.

I think hobbies can make money, but once money and pressure get involved, they can start feeling like work instead of something you enjoy.

For some people, it works out great, but for others, it takes away the fun that made it a hobby in the first place.

Sad But true !!

This is possible. If you can earn money from your hobby, it is quite easy to make it sustainable.
