Hi there,

What's one thing you bought that was your best purchase ever that you have absolutely no regrets of buying?

Mine was probably computer science class it was what springs to mind the most.

That's true they are expensive but definitely worth the money

My MacBook Pro. I love it. It was very very expensive but it's a tool for my work.

Sounds good, I used to have a MacBook myself despite the high price Apple is generally solid.

Probably my house? So that I don't have asshole landlords or flatmates kicking me out every six months.

Right there with you on that one. I bought back in 2021 just before the bubble REALLY burst. Best financial decision of my life.

I bought it in 2005.

They say it's not an asset because you have to maintain it, but the lack of stress from being told to move out because landlord wants to renovate or sell or whatever ...plus increase in costs renting and buying.....definitely was very sensible of me.

My sister waited and ended up buying a one bedroom shoebox years down the line while I bought a three beddie with decent sized garden.
