Strip Club Allegedly Set on Fire by a 'Serial Arsonist' in Los Angeles. Suspect Now Faces Felony Charges Tied to 3 Fires.

A man allegedly set fire to a gentlemen's club in the Canoga Park neighborhood in west L.A. on March 5.

A man has been charged with multiple counts felony arson after allegedly setting three fires in Los Angeles, including one at a strip club.

Farsaad allegedly set fire to an electrical vault in a warehouse in the Fashion District in downtown Los Angeles on March 2, per the DA's office. The fire self-extinguished, but Farsaad then allegedly returned to the same location on March 8 and set fire to the electrical vault again.

Then, on March 5, Farsaad allegedly set fire to a gentlemen's club in the Canoga Park neighbourhood in west Los Angeles.

The third fire caused "significant charring, heat and smoke damage to the structure," per the release.

If convicted, Farsaad faces up to 14 years and four months in prison

-----The strip club in this city here also was set on fire last year but it's still going and the police blamed it on women using the microwave upstairs.
