Thread: Only Fans Star arrested for peeing on & damaging furniture in multiple AirBnBs

The Pact - March 21, 2026, 10:51 pm

The Florida woman 31 allegedly filmed herself urinating on furniture and other items and uploaded the videos on adult film sites causing thousands of dollars of damage. How many of you ewhores and OFM are going to try this at home?

Nicolette Keough, 31, was allegedly filming videos of herself urinating and uploading them to an adult film site for money, according to the Pensacola Police Department.

An Airbnb owner filed a criminal mischief complaint against Keough on March 15.

The owner found that an antique Crown Royal chair, rug, typewriter, four dining room chairs, coffee maker, bed, TV, record player, toaster and electric fireplace had been ruined, per the police report, according to the outlet.

She looks extremely happy in her mugshot.

That is the happiest mug shot I've ever seen I guess she's expecting it will. But she has to pay $3000 in damages which is probably nothing to her. Ugg.

How could it "ruin" a TV though? The other stuff I guess I can buy that they were genuinely ruined. Wouldn't she need like a massive amount to ruin a TV?

Le me Google -> 'how do you make yourself pee a lot'
As if my browser history wasn't wierd enough xD

I myself never understood Urolagnia. Then again to each their own but maybe not while destroying others their properties.

Imho she wanted to do it in B&B's because you didn't want her own house to smell like pee right?

Yeah that's super selfish. But not only that she wanted to do it in different B and Bs because there'd be more variety and "excitement" in the content of her doing it in different places on unexpected items. ?

Why is it unbelievable? It's a site for mostly whores to get paid to film themselves masturbating. Do we really give a shit that she peed on the furniture? I personally don't care, it's not that much worst than being butt ass naked for $10. Perhaps it's less embarrassing because you can find porn anywhere, but you can't find videos of Airbnb being pissed on that easily.

Food for thought

I will say that there are at least 77.3 million Americans who made a worst decision than her. And there are plenty of felons who have done worst and are still praised by the world.

She's fine, let her be

Of course, of course. If it was my house, I'd be calling for her detention and a complete anti-freedom of speech crackdown on OnlyFans to ensure they have proper moderation and approval processes for new creators & types of content. I would also be asking police to identify her, arrest her, subpoena OF platform, etc.

Because every new and interesting item is more CONTENT. Also a typewriter would be one of the easiest items to ruin. All that pounding, all that ribbon.

True, very true! Could make for an interesting ASMR video too. Rain-like noises for sleep, trickling through the typewriter keys with binaural backdrop noises.

1. As many have stated that's an incredible amount of piss. Reminds me of those videos on pornhub of people taking XXL bad dragon dildos, I admit that I watch those things mostly out of extreme interest in the limit of the human body. Truly an Olympic effort by pornstars and e-whores nowadays.

2. I wonder if she sat down and did the cost-benefit analysis between paying people to willingly piss on their staff or even creating like a fake apartment situation with used or thrifted stuff, and just straight up committing crimes and getting sued between each person separately.

After all I bet there would be at least a couple of freaks that would pay her to come to their place, piss on everything and allow her to post it and then she could double dip without committing multiple crimes.

Cooligan - March 23, 2026, 11:59 pm

I wonder if this is a case of standard social media syndrome/addiction and being totally tone deaf about anyone/thing , or if this is just some paid stunt she did for one of her unhinged fans.

Nowadays, either reason wouldn't surprise me.

I think it's fairly obvious that she did it for a whole bunch of fans with that particular fetish, and who thought she was hot, but that it was her idea for something that would make her money.

I think maybe she thought she wouldn't really get caught and it looks like she did it at several Airbnbs, but only one came after her with the cops so far and she looks extremely happy in her mug shot like she knows this will help business.

Originally they were saying it was only $3000 worth of damage in the one place trying to press charges, but later articles are saying that it's $5000 and that Nicolette rented two from the same person and did it in both places. She was going to different Airbnbs to have content and different things for her male clients to look at.

The owner of both rentals received a message from someone on the app that her then-guest, 31-year-old Nicolette Keough, peed on multiple items in one of the units. The owner then reportedly found a video on an adult content website that showed a woman peeing in the unit.

"This kind of behavior has no place on Airbnb. We've removed the guest from our platform and are continuing to assist the host with their reimbursement request through our AirCover damage protection for hosts. Property damage incidents during Airbnb stays are rare, and our hosts are backed by our 24/7 global Community Support and AirCover, which are included with every reservation."

It worries me for women. Because the sex industry is in a sense getting ruined by what can be done on a video online from anywhere in the world and there must be a lot of women feeling they have to do more and more extreme stuff.

When Andrew Tate had 70 women "working" for him he allegedly had two enforcer women who allegedly committed torture to control other women [Oh and "the women went out with Tate to the club." Yeah his enforcers, and then there were all the fines for crying during allegedly being made to work 10 hours a day. Fines have been a thing forever in the industry. So there's always the sex trafficking as well, but I imagine there are plenty of people that are OFM or whatever that aren't trafficking.

But yeah regarding it ruining the industry there was a pimp in my city an old school one with a brothel and his father said to me he knew his son's business wasn't making any money and then his son killed himself. I was a manager at one of his dad's clubs. That was a shocker though his son killing himself near the end of last year. I only met his son once.

I don't know why he was banned. At one point he became extremely annoying mocking me a lot for wanting the forum to look decent by not tolerating the trend towards ditching capital letters entirely. Thread titles with no capitals are the worst for making the forum look unsightly. And I'm a private online school English teacher so he was just being very annoying and he thought it was funny when it wasn't. Although yes I WILL make mistakes. I have two learning disabilities and a masters degree with honours in English.

From Omni's comment on his account he may be one of these people that was bugging Omni about deleting some of his posts, protecting privacy or some such thing, but that's only a wild guess from what he wrote on the notes on Nodes' account, and because I know of other cases where that hasn't panned out well. I get messages from people asking me to delete half their posts too and that can get annoying.

Nodes always made a big thing of how he was very ethical and white hat though, so I wouldn't think he'd be wanting deletion for the usual probable reasons.

PENSACOLA, Florida. -- Nicolette Keough, 31, the same woman who made headlines earlier this year for allegedly urinating on Pensacola Airbnb furniture is back behind bars on a new, similar charge.

Her bond was revoked for violating bail conditions for a battery arrest in mid-March.

She reportedly caused thousands of dollars of property damage. The report states she also uploaded videos of the incidents to an adult content website.

Keough's new charge reportedly stems from videos surfacing on the internet.

According to the report, the owner of an Airbnb on Riddick Drive talked to Pensacola Police on April 24. He said videos show Keough -- who stayed at his residence from Aug. 31 to Sept. 11 of last year -- urinating on furniture inside the home. Pensacola Police were provided the videos, which reportedly confirmed the allegations.

The report states the total estimated value of the property damage came out to $17,395:

blue coral chair - $500
king size mattress - $4,000
twin mattress - $2,900
leather sofa - $5,195
sleeper sofa - $4,800

She'll appear again on June 12 for the property damage charge.

"These are incidents that happened around the same time frame. It's just that the owners are only just now finding out about it and reporting it to us," Officer Mike Wood said.

Keough is being very cooperative with us when she's confronted. That's how we know there's probably going to be some more properties involved," he added.

At one point he became extremely annoying mocking me a lot for wanting the forum to look decent by not tolerating the trend towards ditching capital letters entirely. Thread titles with no capitals are the worst for making the forum look unsightly. And I'm a private online school English teacher so he was just being very annoying and he thought it was funny when it wasn't. Although yes I WILL make mistakes. I have two learning disabilities and a masters degree with honours in English.

From Omni's comment on his account he may be one of these people that was bugging Omni about deleting some of his posts, protecting privacy or some such thing, but that's only a wild guess from what he wrote on the notes on Nodes' account, and because I know of other cases where that hasn't panned out well. I get messages from people asking me to delete half their posts too and that can get annoying.

Nodes always made a big thing of how he was very ethical and white hat though, so I wouldn't think he'd be wanting deletion for the usual probable reasons.

It could of been some of his posts regarding Charlie Kirk which I actually got into a bit of an argument with him in regards but I could definitely see him wanting some of the things he said in regards to that removed because it was vile, he did have a major switch up of his style around the time SRPP was removed almost like it was a different person but I don't know.

Political views change, opinions change, my opinion from 1 or 2 years ago could be different today some people could definitely want that stuff wiped, although my opinions largely remain the same and I will not request any kind of post/thread deletions.

I personally don't even use the "hack" sections other than Site News I am simple general, politics, technology are more my style.

What was he in the "he really deserved it," crowd? Kind of ironic when he was always talking about ethics and only being white hat.

In regards to Charlie yes, he was pretty much praising what happened to him, I was on the side of "If you support what happened to Charlie you are a piece of shit".

Keep in mind I didn't like many of the views Charlie had but he didn't deserve what happened, his kids didn't deserve to lose their father.

At this point it is not a one off stunt. if there are multiple properties and videos surfacing later, the hosts are the ones getting hurt.

Recording it and uploading it also makes it way less about a private kink and more about using other people's property for content. Hope the owners get full restitution.

I suspect it's more about money and finding an untapped niche for money than her personal kink, although it could be. But mostly I'm guessing she decided the whole scheme would be worth it. I've never in my life seen such a smiley mug shot. She thinks it's publicity. It's actually probably really really awful for these small or rather micro business owners.

While all micro-businesses are small businesses, not all small businesses are micro-businesses. The term micro-business defines the specific tier of business that a typical Airbnb host operates.

A micro business doesn't really have a financial buffer: If a guest destroys a room in a major hotel chain (a large business), the hotel likely has corporate legal teams, dedicated security, and the cash flow to absorb the loss. If a guest ruins the furniture of an Airbnb host, it might completely halt that owner's income and it will likely hurt them a lot.
