Thread: Referral Program for \$5 in XMR

Omniscient - March 27, 2026, 11:51 am

Would members have interest in getting $5 XMR for every member they refer to HF that upgrades into L33t? Could possibly even expand that and provide other bonuses based on payments like if they buy advertising.

Is this something you personally would participate in and help HF gain members?

Good concept. Might also be worthwhile to run ads to get new users on google adwords.

edit

maybe target something like "how to hack fortnite" or "how to to AI OnlyFans" and encourage users to give free stuff away by them to make their threads/download l33t only and any signups from their thread pay the thread creator a commission. Could pay the commission in bytes too.

We can't. HF violates their ToS. Domain is banned.

Your prefrontal cortex is certainly not fully developed.

Omni I think the referral is a solid idea. Could even throw in a referral award for a certain number of referrals / etc.

That sucks.

DuckDuckGo? Probably more the target audience anyways.

What are your thoughts on l33t only downloads for thread attachments any paying bytes commission for any resulting upgrades?

DDG uses MS (BING) ads and terms are similar.

And we already have Attachments w/Bytes system.

That's a great idea, Omni. Maybe do like a tiered referral rate for overall spend %

There's smaller advertising networks but you need to have a scale up strategy before investing in marketing. Have you considered targeted banner advertising on related niche websites? While tech in general is difficult to get into/compete (looking at you, Silicon Valley) you might find more success with tech bloggers or magazines. The budgeting would be easier to account for Cool idea, I'd say let's test it out for a year.

If it's a domain only thing maybe you could bypass it with MoneyForums.net, btw now with all the new markets like Polymarket; I think the world is ready for possibly the next largest BB board -> Money Forums can do that if it plays into the hype.

Dude, now you'd have MoneyForums.net domain banned. LOL WTF think first.

And I have zero desire for a new forum.

This is a great idea for new and quality traffic. $5 XMR is a solid incentive for L33T upgrades, but I think the real growth potential is in the advertising bonuses. I don't hear much about referrals, but I think that those who bring in HQ members are the real silent heroes.

I really like this idea very much... in general, I support any idea that helps attract more members and keeps the forum active all the time.
