For me Two days ago, around 2 a.m., my friend and I were pretty drunk. He was driving, and when we stopped at a traffic light, he suddenly accelerated.

Thought crimes

Jamika - April 1, 2026, 11:46 am

I am very committed... perhaps the worst thing I've done lately is that I always throw trash out of the car like a wild pig.

Wells - April 1, 2026, 11:59 am

I have been a good boy so my record is clean.

Thankfully I don't live in England, because then the situation may have been different. A hardened thought criminal I would have been, as Undead already hinted so beautifully.

Happy Fools Day everyone. :-)

The Joker - April 1, 2026, 12:32 pm

Well, I've always been filled with 'Mens Rea' but rarely 'Actus Reus'.

Please don't do this if you can commit to being better with trash. I know it's easy but it ends up going into the soil & the water. Then it can break down and lead to things like microplastics in our rain, constantly precipitating.

Not judging too hard, I admitted to littering, and I've done the car toss in the past, but I learned the errors of my ways. If we're all better, the planet will be better too. They say they'll call us the Plasticene era because future geologists will literally find a layer of plastic particles throughout the entire Earth from the last 75 years & onwards.

I can be better, we can all be better.

In the UK we mostly just get away with stuff unless we post something the gov doesn't find acceptable online, and then they boot your door down hahhaa.

I committed a crime just now, I convinced someone to go sign up for the Vegas Conference giveaway and lowered our chances.

Running from the cops—honestly, they're more criminal than I am. I have to admit not all of them are like that, but a large portion are. They'll stop you just because you look suspicious walking at night, ask you for money, or try to threaten you with violence. The ugly part is seeing how some of these guys abuse their authority with street performers, kids, women, or people with disabilities.

It didn't happen this week—it was almost a month ago—but the adrenaline was kind of exciting :3

Felonies or Misdemeanors?

If crimes include misdemeanors it's going to take me a while to list them all.

If you commit a partial misdemeanor, is it an infraction?

I don't believe I've broken the law as of yet this week. I don't know, I don't consider it to be something to strive for.
