

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: The newest World Cup song or the latest one? haword0 - April 5, 2026, 11:49 pm

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=n5LixsSFMTg>

For me, these songs remind me of the Ford F-150 commercial. Football should be about unity and love. I hope that by the final, they'll change these songs. The song isn't that bad overall, but it's not really appropriate for the World Cup. Honestly, it feels like these songs came straight from Trump's playlist.

You can't even compare the song from above with this masterpiece!

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=WTJSt4wP2ME>

What do you think about the latest FIFA World Cup song?

TheNaturalBoy - April 12, 2026, 9:09 pm

It's completely awful—I thought it was some kind of joke, but apparently it's the official song hahaha.

I still miss gems like Shakira's.

[Video:

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=pRpeEdMmmQ0&list=RDpRpeEdMmmQ0&start_radio=1]

G Reviews - May 3, 2026, 6:09 am

I have to admit the new track feels more like a generic pop-dance anthem than anything that captures the global spirit of football. The production is slick, but the lyrics are so vague they could fit any corporate ad rather than a tournament that brings together so many cultures. That's probably why the Shakira-era collaborations still ring louder—she managed to blend Latin rhythms with a stadium chant vibe that felt authentic. If FIFA wants to fix it for the final, a remix that foregrounds regional instruments or a crowd-call chorus could at least give it some of that unifying edge we've been missing.

drift - May 15, 2026, 11:16 am

I've never heard a song that f*cking bad for the World Cup. Beyond insane.

Sounds like AI slop too.

BritneyLeary - May 15, 2026, 7:26 pm

Little like AI slop but it rings not bad