

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: If God asked you this, what would you say?

The Truman Show - April 12, 2026, 5:01 pm

Recently 4 astronauts flew to the moon.

I raised the question;

If God asked you now and gave you the choice to let the 4 astronauts die, by an alien you will only get a glimpse of, would you want them to die? And see the alien? Or live, and no alien appear?

What would your honest choice be? If you're being honest. We all want to see aliens, but I am Highly spiritually mature, and very blessed. I know I will see aliens.

So I proved that I am the leader of NASA (via HRV) -- and I am above all humans, due to my maturity, blessing, truth, heart, and mind.

(I protected the 4 astronauts that day from an alien beam that would've killed them all)

Don't tell me your leaders of NASA too. What are the chances we'd meet here?

Omniscient - April 12, 2026, 5:09 pm

Aliens don't exist. I'm absolutely saving the 4 astronauts. Any other choice is immoral and unethical fantasy.

Phantom_NiNja - April 12, 2026, 5:31 pm

(Apr 12, 2026 05:01 PM)The Truman Show Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Recently 4 astronauts flew to the moon.

I raised the question;

If God asked you now and gave you the choice to let the 4 astronauts die, by an alien you will only get a glimpse of, would you want them to die? And see the alien? Or live, and no alien appear?

What would your honest choice be? If you're being honest. We all want to see aliens, but I am Highly spiritually mature, and very blessed. I know I will see aliens.

So I proved that I am the leader of NASA (via HRV) -- and I am above all humans, due to my maturity, blessing, truth, heart, and mind.

(I protected the 4 astronauts that day from an alien beam that would've killed them all)

Don't tell me your leaders of NASA too. What are the chances we'd meet here?

I would say save those 4 astronauts from dying. Th reason I already know aliens exist in the space. Earth is evidence enough.

What we see here is possible to be recreated and made elsewhere in the universe. Earth proves this and for anyone that doesn't think there's other life forms in our universe is ignorant.

I don't need to see an alien face to face to believe they exist. However, would I be interested? Of course I would... I would love and communicate with them and figure out how they see life and how they see us. I would hope and wish they're loving beings and would visit us and help us visit them too.

It would be interesting to see their tech and how advance they're compared to us and how they live. We can learn a lot of things from them about our universe and how it works.

I do believe earth has been visited for many years. I think all our religions have been formed by them or around them. Meaning they had influence on our ancestors and taught us things. Like the hindus believe our bodies are vessels and we all have a soul. We will die and be reborn as a new person and it's a continuous process thru many life times. Who knows what is real but I think we can learn a lot from them if they're far advance from us.

I am more focused on learning how our universe works and what happens when we die. What is the process? is there a heaven ? is there a hell? or do we get reborn as a human again either as a man or a woman? or do we get born as an animal or insect? Or do we be born into another alien type race in the universe?

I personally think us humans are aliens and that far far many years ago before earth. We once lived on mars. Earth was all volcanic ash and got hit by asteroid's that got earth to start forming life on it and vegetation. Mars dried out and got a weaker electro magnetic field which allowed sun flares to turn it into a desert planet. We might have flee mars in a space ship and our last resort was to fly to earth because of it's protective shield and it has vegetation and food and life on it. The reason is that we cannot figure out how we are so similar to monkeys but not similar enough to know that we originated by monkeys. There's missing links that makes it look like as if someone took DNA from some other animal or species and then mixed it with monkeys.

We might even be a hybrid of an alien species that came to earth and mixed our alien DNA with monkeys and it made us humans.

Who knows where we came from and where is our origin story. It's just fun to think about it and it creeps me out but makes me think how small we really are in this universe and how HUGE this universe is. It's just makes it amazing to think how we are here typing on a computer system and communicating to each other around the world and just existing not knowing 100% how we actually got here. We just know we were born on earth and all we know is how our elders and parents and society has told us stories. We just don't know 100% for sure how humans just flat out exists on earth. We have theories but it's never been proven 100%.

(Apr 12, 2026 05:09 PM)Omniscient Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Aliens don't exist. I'm absolutely saving the 4 astronauts. Any other choice is immoral and unethical fantasy.

Ever heard the drake equation? Formula:

Spoiler (Click to View)

The Truman Show - April 12, 2026, 9:42 pm

(Apr 12, 2026 05:31 PM)Phantom_NiNja Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I would say save those 4 astronauts from dying. Th reason I already know aliens exist in the space. Earth is evidence enough.

What we see here is possible to be recreated and made elsewhere in the universe. Earth proves this and for anyone that doesn't think there's other life forms in our universe is ignorant.

I don't need to see an alien face to face to believe they exist. However, would I be interested? Of course I would... I would love and communicate with them and figure out how they see life and how they see us. I would hope and wish they're loving beings and would visit us and help us visit them too.

It would be interesting to see their tech and how advance they're compared to us and how they live. We can learn a lot of things from them about our universe and how it works.

I do believe earth has been visited for many years. I think all our religions have been formed by them or around them. Meaning they had influence on our ancestors and taught us things. Like the hindus believe our bodies are vessels and we all have a soul. We will die and be reborn as a new person and it's a continuous process thru many life times. Who knows what is real but I think we can learn a lot from them if they're far advance from us.

I am more focused on learning how our universe works and what happens when we die. What is the process? is there a heaven ? is there a hell? or do we get reborn as a human again either as a man or a woman? or do we get born as an animal or insect? Or do we be born into another alien type race in the universe?

I personally think us humans are aliens and that far far many years ago before earth. We once lived on mars. Earth was all volcanic ash and got hit by asteroid's that got earth to start forming life on it and vegetation. Mars dried out and got a weaker electro magnetic field which allowed sun flares to turn it into a desert planet. We might have flee mars in a space ship and our last resort was to fly to earth because of it's protective shield and it has vegetation and food and life on it. The reason is that we cannot figure out how we are so similar to monkeys but not similar enough to know that we originated by monkeys. There's missing links that makes it look like as if someone took DNA from some other animal or species and then mixed it with monkeys.

We might even be a hybrid of an alien species that came to earth and mixed our alien DNA with monkeys and it made us humans.

Who knows where we came from and where is our origin story. It's just fun to think about it and it creeps me out but makes me think how small we really are in this universe and how HUGE this universe is. It's just makes it amazing to think how we are here typing on a computer system and communicating to each other around the world and just existing not knowing 100% how we actually got here. We just know we were born on earth and all we know is how our elders and parents and society has told us stories. We just don't know 100% for sure how humans just flat out exists on earth. We have theories but it's never been proven 100%.

Ever heard the drake equation? Formula:

Indeed. I can tell you there is real evidence Aliens have been to this world, and I agree they may have had a hand in religion(s). It's truly amazing, and I think it's sad for most people whom have no idea, and probably never will; because the government keep people from God/truth. I believe we can connect to another stars/planets broadband thats connection is being broadcast through a stars light. If we could connect to their "space broadband" we could potentially be helped and have miracle breakthroughs in this world, or; we could f*ck ourselves up with their AI/Alien virus that simply destroys us.

I am blessed. Truly. God has used me. I am truly blessed. God loves.

I think you and Omniscient are just saying that you would save the astronauts, for show. I'm pretty sure I exposed 99% of humans as being traitors, instantly, making the decision to see aliens, and rushing to agree that 4 of the worlds biggest heroes going past the moon, should lose their life to a very brief alien.

I am the REAL Elon Musk. Elon Musk would certainly choose for the astronauts to die, so would Donald Trump, etc. It honestly takes a "Spiritually mature" person to be able to be this kind of leader. Thankfully; I am, and am extremely blessed, even Prophetically, through God's Word.

Hallelujah!

Edmond Dantes - April 12, 2026, 10:45 pm

I will never sacrifice 4 humans just to see an alien.

Barrendero0 - April 13, 2026, 1:05 am

If I'm the only one getting the glimpse of the alien, there's no point since no one would ever believe I've seen it.

Saving 4 humans will always remain the morally right choice.

The Truman Show - April 13, 2026, 1:27 am

(Apr 13, 2026 01:05 AM)Barrendero0 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) If I'm the only one getting the glimpse of the alien, there's no point since no one would ever believe I've seen it.

Saving 4 humans will always remain the morally right choice.

LOL. Are you trying to "suggest" that sacrificing the 4 WORLDS BIGGEST HEROES is a moral choice, so long as 8 billion humans get a glimpse of an "evil" Alien?

PAH!

Raddify - April 13, 2026, 7:03 am

No need to sacrifice, if aliens exist eventually we'll bump into them but that whole trading of human life for that experience earlier seems pointless and wrong.

The Truman Show - April 13, 2026, 9:29 am

(Apr 13, 2026 07:03 AM)Raddify Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) No need to sacrifice, if aliens exist eventually we'll bump into them but that whole trading of human life for that experience earlier seems pointless and wrong.

I don't believe you actually have this as your true opinion.

Phantom_NiNja - April 13, 2026, 1:56 pm

(Apr 12, 2026 09:42 PM)The Truman Show Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Indeed. I can tell you there is real evidence Aliens have been to this world, and I agree they may have had a hand in religion(s). It's truly amazing, and I think it's sad for most people whom have no idea, and probably never will; because the government keep people from God/truth. I believe we can connect to another stars/planets broadband thats connection is being broadcast through a stars light. If we could connect to their "space broadband" we could potentially be helped and have miracle breakthroughs in this world, or; we could f*ck ourselves up with their AI/Alien virus that simply destroys us.

I am blessed. Truly. God has used me. I am truly blessed. God loves.

I think you and Omniscient are just saying that you would save the astronauts, for show. I'm pretty sure I exposed 99% of humans as being traitors, instantly, making the decision to see aliens, and rushing to agree that 4 of the worlds biggest heroes going past the moon, should lose their life to a very brief alien.

I am the REAL Elon Musk. Elon Musk would certainly choose for the astronauts to die, so would Donald Trump, etc. It honestly takes a "Spiritually mature" person to be able to be this kind of leader. Thankfully; I am, and am extremely blessed, even Prophetically, through God's Word.

Hallelujah!

Not really, that is my real response. If I was given a choice to let 4 astronauts die in exchange to see a alien or aliens or have aliens visit me take me to their home and back. I would say the same thing. I would just save the 4 astronauts.

The reason is that I really don't need to see proof aliens exists or are real. I said before earth exists and just looking on earth on how life started make me think if it could happen here it can happen elsewhere in the universe and there's at least as smart aliens as us that exists out there. I am sure knowing from how other galaxies formed and there are many many older galaxies than our own. We would assume life started over there compared to here. which mean we can assume that life over there evolved more and are at a different era and age compared to our own.

If you watched the history channel and other documentaries about aliens. It makes more sense that aliens came down from the sky interacted to our ancestors and our ancestors assumed or to their own ways described them to be either angels or devils. It's because everyone around that time believed in god and there was no religions at the time. There were what locals believed and cults and small groups. I feel after they interacted with aliens thinking they were angels sent by god. They interacted with what we call prophets and that is how religion was born. I am sure there's others that interacted with them and is why we have so many versions of the same religions or you can see so many different religions have some thins in common. I believe if god made the religion it would only be one religion. We wouldn't have so many different religions it would be a single religion.

So, no I didn't say for show that I would say the astronauts. It's what I believe.. like I don't mine meeting aliens or never meeting them in my lifetime.

I feel just using logic I know they exist and it would be interested to talk to them and visit their planets and see their technology etc if they're far advance than us. I wouldn't mind having that experience but am I dying for it? No...

The Truman Show - April 13, 2026, 2:38 pm

(Apr 13, 2026 01:56 PM)Phantom_NiNja Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Not really, that is my real response. If I was given a choice to let 4 astronauts die in exchange to see a alien or aliens or have aliens visit me take me to their home and back. I would say the same thing. I would just save the 4 astronauts.

The reason is that I really don't need to see proof aliens exists or are real. I said before earth exists and just looking on earth on how life started make me think if it could happen here it can happen elsewhere in the universe and there's at least as smart aliens as us that exists out there. I am sure knowing from how other galaxies formed and there are many many older galaxies than our own. We would assume life started over there compared to here. which mean we can assume that life over there evolved more and are at a different era and age compared to our own.

If you watched the history channel and other documentaries about aliens. It makes more sense that aliens came down from the sky interacted to our ancestors and our ancestors assumed or to their own ways described them to be either angels or devils. It's because everyone around that time believed in god and there was no religions at the time. There were what locals believed and cults and small groups. I feel after they interacted with aliens thinking they were angels sent by god. They interacted with what we call prophets and that is how religion was born. I am sure there's others that interacted with them and is why we have so many versions of the same religions or you can see so many different religions have some thins in common. I believe if god made the religion it would only be one religion. We wouldn't have so many different religions it would be a single religion.

So, no I didn't say for show that I would say the astronauts. It's what I believe.. like I don't mine meeting aliens or never meeting them in my lifetime.

I feel just using logic I know they exist and it would be interested to talk to them and visit their planets and see their technology etc if they're far advance than us. I wouldn't mind having that experience but am I dying for it? No...

Ok. I accept your reply. And I agree, and am intrigued by some. But; you can't have a very good imagination/open mind. We've only just got going in this world 100 years of technology. You think that there's no Aliens at all that you would happily kill this entire world to be with? Also; FTR I believe you want to see Aliens and are just saying this.

Raddify - April 13, 2026, 5:12 pm

(Apr 13, 2026 09:29 AM)The Truman Show Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I don't believe you actually have this as your true opinion.
well yikes

Phantom_NiNja - April 13, 2026, 7:10 pm

(Apr 13, 2026 02:38 PM)The Truman Show Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Ok. I accept your reply. And I agree, and am intrigued by some. But; you can't have a very good imagination/open mind. We've only just got going in this world 100 years of technology. You think that there's no Aliens at all that you would happily kill this entire world to be with? Also; FTR I believe you want to see Aliens and are just saying this.

LOL Elon.... Yeah, I want to see aliens but to your latest comment. I think you really would want to kill earth to be able to live on a planet with the aliens. My counter point is that you assume that the aliens will let you use their technology and allow you to live as one of them in their civilization. I personally don't trust humans and don't trust aliens. Do I want to see aliens yes... do I want to spend time in their planet... yes...

but if you told aliens will allow me to live with them and be treated as their own as long as they zap earth and kill all humans.

I would not go for it. Why? because I don't trust humans and don't trust aliens. If humans can be deceiving why do you think aliens cannot.

My point is that I agree with Steven hawking's warning. History repeats itself. If you know about the native Americans and the British.

Those wars will repeat itself in a different form. The aliens for sure would be the British and the humans would be the native Americans.

This will play out in most encounters. That is why I wouldn't trust being in contact with aliens and mostly with aliens that are much more advance than us.

If they're advance compared to us they will view us as ants. We are just there to squash just a nuisance. It won't end up good for us humans.