Thread: Whats one modern convenience you think made people worse?

My main one would be AI.

It's a very powerful and hugely helpful tool; however, people seem to lean on it and just trust outputs without question which leads to misinformed people.

What's one you think is making people worse?

AI for sure , I use it script stuff now and many automations.. I don't need to code it myself from scratch. Everything with AI honestly.

Very useful shit.

AI is really useful but it can make you very lazy too, so you should be careful with it.

Exactly! It can definitely be very helpful and super powerful, especially when you know what you are doing with it.

I feel like a lot of people use it for everything and in turn, start missing out on actually learning topics of some of the stuff that they just entirely outsource to AI.

The most scary thing is that I work in rehab community and there are customers that use AI as a therapist or as their friend and thats really scary..

Yeah, I've seen people having those "AI chatbot" apps that they treat as like girlfriends, fucking cringe stuff.

Big money in making those sort of products though I guess ?

AI, no doubt. Everyday business, everyday interactions, environmental impact, everything... has been made worse by AI.

Social networking and video games. Let me preface this with the fact that I do both, but I find it depressing how little effort society puts forth anymore to actually socialize in person.

RangoWorld - April 19, 2026, 11:54 pm

Social Media.

Everyone's on it and it has worsened the lives of all who use it. It has killed the real social life and interaction. It has also made people fake. Trying to come up with a perfect Instagram post.

Doordash, ubereats, justeat etc.

People rely heavily on this stuff and most young people don't even know how to cook basic things. Lazy f**kers

Yes, AI for a fact, the factual realisation that AI has actually dumb people down based on lack of further research on topic, lackadaisical attitude in general even when AI gives a wrong answer. Another one would be smart phones, been on there so much resulting in hunchback

Yeah, People copy-paste without even thinking twice.

For me, I'd say short-form content (Reels/Shorts/TikTok) is making people a bit worse.

Not because it's all bad, but because it's training our brains to want everything fast and easy. Attention span is getting messed up... people don't have the patience to sit with anything deep anymore, like books, long conversations, even their own thoughts.

You scroll for 30 minutes and don't even realise where the time went. And the worst part is, it feels productive or entertaining, but you walk away with nothing real.

It's like... we're constantly consuming, but not really thinking
