Thread: Reverse Engineering\(HELP\) Android private server whiteout survival

Apologize if this isnt allowed

Does anyone know how to grab the files needed to host a mobile game private server from a private server already running?

The game is whiteout survival

Can pay with crypto or w.e for assistance

This isnt the (real game) someone already made a fully working private server and I've been searching for the files for awhile now.

Is it that you want to copy their modules and setup? Why not just build the game server yourself?

I've never done anything like this before. Most if done is runescape private servers where you had files to download and then code your own stuff in and change/work off of.

What i dont have are the files nor do I have any clue how to get them. I've been told you have to reverse engineer or w.e so im seeking professional help here on this one. ?

When someone says to RE they probably mean to just figure out which mods the server runs. You're not getting the "files" from their server.

My question is how did the other person running the private server get the files to run one then?

Surely he had to do something remotely close to this or no? It's an identical match to the real game on the appstore.

Probably had AI create it.

I'm unsure if you're telling me someone is running a private server for a game or has cloned the game or what.

It can go a few ways.

And how do you connect to the server? Does it have a separate App or do you hack the existing app? Or does the app already allow for private servers.

For what one?

Real version you get from the appstore

The private server you download an apk file
