Hello, QuimaRAT!

The Linux output works in any Linux distro?!

What is the speed in FPS of the Remote Desktop?!

HVNC works only on Windows or Mac and Linux, too?!

You can run it on any type of Linux distribution.
Remote Desktop 20-50 FPS, varies depending on connection speed.
HVNC only works for Windows.

I have updated the membership structure to protect the integrity and stability of the software.

Frankly, I was not satisfied with the short-term packages being treated with a 'use-and-discard' mentality.

I am not concerned with having a massive user base;
my priority is a select group of users who understand the service I provide and use the software with integrity.

Wispr - May 8, 2026, 6:22 am well you're going to have no userbase at all if you expect people to only pay 800$ to a brand new users rat.

You're right that $800 is a significant investment for a new platform.
However, most solutions on the market require additional crypters or protection layers to remain effective.
I'm offering a fully-equipped, standalone tool that maintains 100% FUD status out of the box, eliminating the need for any third-party software.

Regarding the user base;
I'm not looking to appeal to the masses.
As long as my current users—who truly understand the value of a self-sufficient tool—are satisfied, that's enough for me.
Even if I don't build a massive user base later on, it's not an issue; the priority is quality over quantity.

Still, I appreciate the feedback.....
