I see, that that is only 3-4 post about Pegasus, it is forbidden to talk about it, or it is only a fairy tale that this software exist and noone will waste time for it?

When it exist, why noone can make alternative on darkweb?

It's not "forbidden" to talk about it, it's sensitive and tied to governments..

I understand that, but i reade here many posts that is impossible to hack iOS. So when Pegasus exist and work, that is not impossible, NSO can do it. And ca do it QuaDream too whit his "Reign" software. Boot of this company is from israel... Its mean israel have the best programmers on the world?

It's not true that iOS is impossible to hack just very hard. Tools like Pegasus and Reign show that with enough money, research, and undisclosed vulnerabilities, even strong systems like iOS can be compromised.

But that doesn't mean one country has "the best programmers in the world." Israel does have a strong cybersecurity scene partly due to military tech units and heavy investment but top talent exists everywhere.

i aggre whit you, and thats why i dont understand why noone else can make same program. I understand too, that is too expensive, but that Pegasus buy for example 5 gooverments for 1.000.000 = 5.000.000 ... but when working alternative will someone sell for 1.000$, it will buy 5.000 users and it is the same ...

Second thing, QuaDream crash on year 2023, whz noone from his programmers sell source code?

No, they can't. Pegasus is, what, a 2021 worm? NSO has been working on new exploits since then, but Windows hackers aren't slinging EternalBlue all over the place with good reason.

Never heard of QuaDream or Reign, but NSO Group, Cellebrite, and others offer large bounties rather than develop everything in-house.

Second thing, QuaDream crash on year 2023, whz noone from his programmers sell source code? I hope this is a joke. If such tooling was widely available, any 0-days utilized would gain more traffic and thus be patched. Not to mention Apple's attractive bug bounty program; anyone with enough skill and time on their hands to find such vulnerabilities would be getting a better payout from Apple themselves.

I know I would rather receive a $2m+ stipend from Apple than pander to a bunch of third worlders, and or government agencies.
