Thread: Mailing List / Newsletter

Omniscient - May 19, 2026, 12:48 pm

I'm curious from HF members if I started an official Mailing List / Newsletter (email) for things like Hot Threads or other information and the email was weekly would you be willing to be on the list? Or do you just ignore solicited emails?

And yes, would be fully opt-in.

5chn4pp - May 19, 2026, 12:56 pm

I would opt-in, but it kinda also depends on the content.

Maybe some inspiration from the HF news threads?

Yes, could also have some HF News content.

I suppose I should call it a Newsletter really.

Is this different from announcements? Like I got the ' HF Summer Kickoff Giveaway [$1500+ Prizes]'

Mix - May 19, 2026, 2:56 pm

I would happily be added, If anything I think maybe even adding a section of the HF news would be a wise move but its your call honestly. Plus it also depends on how many members would be interested in getting a newsletter.

I like the sound of this idea I would be added, maybe post some teasers of the best content to X and other socials? Hopefully grab the attention of new users and get some new signups.

IMO I think it would be cool if the news team could push out alerts (to users that opt in for it).

For any "breaking news" or even just when weekly editions are released.

I am willing to be on the list. Also think it would be a good way to attract advertising.

CL1B - May 20, 2026, 2:04 am

I'd opt in!

Jamika - May 20, 2026, 6:43 am

I can add my email, but honestly, I don't see a huge benefit in it... anyone who regularly visits the forum sees these threads every day anyway.

eXceptional - May 20, 2026, 11:37 am

I wouldn't opt for it. Unless they are something very important like site changes, features, etc.

JoshAllen - May 20, 2026, 11:39 am

I would opt in. I read every HF email that comes already like when events are happening.

What if it was just monthly? Like first week of each month with a summary of updates.

Positive - May 20, 2026, 1:49 pm

I'd opt in for sure. Sometimes, life gets in the way, and other things are priority. Catching up with a weekly/monthly newsletter is how I get most of my "news" anyways.

You could even have sell ad space to vendors if you wanted or as other stated, have top threads or "hot topics" included.

Bluffer - May 20, 2026, 8:06 pm

For privacy reasons I use an email specifically for HF.

I'd be very paranoid to link my real personal email to HF. If there was a way around this to maybe anonymously sign up where I didn't link my hf account with signing up for the newsletter I'd do it.

Don't you already send emails? I've got some emails saying "pm waiting your reply" respect for mentioning first but could just integrate it no problem.

This would be based on your current "Messaging and Notification" Settings. You would have " Notify me by email when I receive a new Private Message." Ticked.

Here is mine as a example.

I'd be happy to opt into something like this, could even link the HF news articles weekly.

I don't find the time to jump on nearly as much anymore due to business commitments but still love to catch up on the community where possible.

Ah yes. That makes sense. Cause those are the emails I get. Thanks for clarifying.

Oh_Well - May 25, 2026, 11:14 pm

I find it cool and would want to get these, but to be realistic I think I would ignore it. I have lots of different emails and all of them are getting emails one way or the other so it's kinda difficult to monitor them and get value.
