MORTAL KOMBAT SHAOLIN MONKS LIVE ACTION?

I haven't seen Mortal Kombat II yet, but I heard that the strong point of the movie is the fight between Liu Kang and Kung Lao.

Since the actors playing those characters released some photos, I'm dreaming that in this current era of live-action adaptations, it would be really cool to have a live-action MK Shaolin Monks made into a series format.

Plus, those guys aren't incredibly famous actors, so the budget might not skyrocket either.

What do you guys think?

Not sure if this would ever happen, MK isn't to popular in the states movie wise nowadays.. So far the new movie has only done about 21 million profit. Prob leaving theaters soon if it hasn't already. Don't get me wrong i'm a huge fan, 95 and 97 movies are the best lol.

IDK about China and Japan, maybe it would do better if it wasn't made by the losers in today's hollywood.

I watched the movie and it's not that great unfortunately. I need to watch the old ones :)
