

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Is the enemy of your enemy your friend?

Quintus Fabius Maximus - May 23, 2026, 3:41 pm

For me no. Someone who shares a common enemy with me is not my friend, unless they are already my friend in the first place.

Mercury - May 23, 2026, 4:11 pm

This is a highly circumstantial question. Every situation like this is different and what that scenario is, will determine that.

An enemy of your enemy could have been your enemy first as one example.

JZero - May 24, 2026, 11:32 am

No cause they are bound to change on me too

Weekend Offender - May 24, 2026, 12:02 pm

(May 23, 2026 03:41 PM)Quintus Fabius Maximus Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) For me no. Someone who shares a common enemy with me is not my friend, unless they are already my friend in the first place.

It is a good tactic but these days I am too focused on my own stuff to even know who would be an 'Enemy' nevermind who their enemies are Xd Just in the beginning try to avoid making enemies(as hard as it is)would be the best route to go down.

What would one have to do to you before they crossed the line to enemy?

Edmond Dantes - May 24, 2026, 1:34 pm

Don't know that but the enemy of my friend is my enemy for sure !

Sift - May 24, 2026, 2:58 pm

They are your friend until the beneficially need of each other done.

Ikukuego - May 26, 2026, 5:46 pm

Nope, different strokes....

NofaceDrew - May 27, 2026, 5:13 am

(May 23, 2026 03:41 PM)Quintus Fabius Maximus Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) For me no. Someone who shares a common enemy with me is not my friend, unless they are already my friend in the first place.

Definitely not your friend but yall can share some info

Eoid - May 27, 2026, 5:09 pm

yes they are