

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Have any of you ever gone fishing or hunting?

TheNaturalBoy - May 24, 2026, 11:11 pm

It's been several years since I last went hunting with my father. We didn't use firearms, though — it was more about setting traps or waiting to catch a rabbit or something similar. I've never gone fishing, but it honestly seems fun. In American or foreign movies, there's almost always a moment of reflection or some kind of bonding during fishing trips. The most common dynamic I've seen is father and son.

I also understand that hunting isn't viewed very positively nowadays, especially because there are people who hunt irresponsibly without respecting nature or the regulations that now exist. But have any of you ever hunted something at some point in your life? Did you have any good or bad experiences with those kinds of activities? I'm listening.

ctbrown2 - May 25, 2026, 12:06 am

NO and I never will...

Edmond Dantes - May 25, 2026, 12:48 am

I was going to hunting with my dad when I was young, and when I got older I started going fishing with my friends.

ModernEHustle - May 25, 2026, 1:27 am

Five year weapons ban club ?

Deany - May 25, 2026, 3:59 pm

I used to go fishing , Sheepshead are pretty good to eat

SIM-5751111 - May 25, 2026, 4:08 pm

i wish i did but i just dont have anywhere to go near me

Ikukuego - May 26, 2026, 5:46 pm

Nah, not looking forward to that either!

Ryan Carter - September 2, 2026, 10:28 am

I've never been hunting, but I understand why it can be a meaningful tradition when it is done legally and responsibly. Fishing seems more appealing to me because it combines patience, nature, and time to talk without distractions. I would like to try it someday, even if I didn't catch anything.

clark.dll - September 2, 2026, 7:55 pm

Fishing with my dad, mostly when I was younger. It wasn't too much fun for me, but I liked spending the quality time with him.

Sift - September 3, 2026, 10:37 am

Went once fishing with my Father.

?ystem - September 3, 2026, 11:03 am

Where I'm from, it's often joked how we're born knowing how to fish. Although I don't think I've gone hunting before. Opportunity just never presented itself.

CyberXero - September 3, 2026, 12:14 pm

Went Fishing with my father growing up many times. it was dumb, went hunting and fishing with the boys. now we shoot pests and carve up the ocean,

RiveR29 - September 3, 2026, 11:34 pm

Yeah a bunch.

I hunt almost anything. Moose, deer etc.
Sometimes even Boars and what not.

I find it quite a bit of fun. But I and my dad we have this way of thinking that we only hunt what we actually need.
And nothing more.

peldon - September 4, 2026, 11:22 am

Snorkelling fishing only

OGTHUNDERJAB - September 7, 2026, 11:37 am

I loved going fishing when I was younger, the patience it takes to get the fish builds character and focus. Same for the hunt, you get to respect the life of the animal you hunt and be grateful for what it brings you.

(Sep 3, 2026 11:34 PM)RiveR29 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yeah a bunch.

I hunt almost anything. Moose, deer etc.
Sometimes even Boars and what not.

I find it quite a bit of fun. But I and my dad we have this way of thinking that we only hunt what we actually need.
And nothing more.
What did you hunt these with ?

Respect - September 9, 2026, 1:41 am

Never gone hunting, nothing against it. Just not for me.

Fishing yeah many times. It can get boring but it's fun if you're with good people

Sleafordianvader - September 9, 2026, 1:51 am

Fishing on a nice day with a few beers is about as good life gets!!