Thread: [\[Wanted\] Multi-platform RAT \(Windows/macOS/Linux\) with ESET bypass + self-hosted](#) matin - May 26, 2026, 4:26 am

Looking for a RAT / C2 that meets the following requirements:

Must have:

Multi-platform clients – Windows, macOS, Linux (all three required)

Self-hosted – I need to install the panel on my own VPS, no SaaS / hosted panel

ESET Endpoint bypass – Must be able to bypass business/enterprise version (both static and behavioral)

Trial / demo – I need 24-48 hours to test on my own ESET environment before purchasing

Payment via escrow – I will only pay using forum escrow or trusted middleman

Nice to have:

HVNC

Stealer (browsers, wallets, etc.)

CDN / domain fronting support

Linux server component (Ubuntu/Debian)

Ongoing updates / support

My budget: Flexible depending on features and quality.

Serious sellers only. If you cannot offer a trial, please do not contact me.

Please DM me with:

Your product name and features

Price (monthly / lifetime)

Whether trial is available

Any proof (screenshots, scan results, or existing customers)

Thanks!

I would suggest Overlord, but I can't guarantee that it or any RAT will be undetected by ESET Endpoint. RATs have limited if any AV evasion. Since you're asking for an all-in-one package, you need someone to build you a custom RAT.

Thank you, that's very helpful and honest.

Can you point me to where I can find Overlord? (GitHub link or forum thread?)

Also, if I wanted to hire someone to build a custom RAT (Windows + macOS + Linux, with ESET bypass), where would you recommend I look? What would be a reasonable budget for something like that?

Thanks again for your advice.

Sounds like he's looking to achieve something specific, not sure if Overlord is the best / most stable option? I still need to give it a try again and mess about with it though.

It's stable, though Violet might have more features if that's what counts. Overlord does have low detections.
