Got this unusual notification and checked it out:

Code 11 hours ago

RealizedGainsOnly sent you a private message titled Re: TOR ecom.
After click on it, it returns: "invalid PM"

What do you think happened to that?

I also do not know, nor had any transaction with a member @RealizedGainsOnly

At least you know with this forum your safety is well looked after :) Most likely got filtered before you had time to click on it. Most definitely saved you from some sort of pooron scheme. Don't be going and getting curious and asking him what he said though. :)

Realizing it - that is logically true. This could have been harmful. Though the user looks to me purchase a subs a membership elevated.

But the sound of his username, sounds like sketchy to me.

But yes, saved by the bell as they say..That's the good thing about HF, we love you HF! ???

I think i have gotten that error before also...

if i don't know of them, have previous contact with the, or dealt with them in any way....instant delete for me lol. Plus anymore the convo is the way to go. PM's are usually only for info i want to make sure is saved, stuff pertaining to contracts usually.
