

Forum: Hack Forums

Thread: INR USDT at Lowest Charges \(Best Method?\)

NOTHING - June 19, 2026, 2:05 am

Hey everyone—quick question about converting INR to USDT (or other crypto) with the least possible charges.

I've tried Binance P2P, but I noticed there's still some kind of commission/spread. For example, they show 1 USDT ? 103 INR, but the current real market price is around 94 INR. That gap makes it feel like I'm paying extra.

So I'm trying to figure out:

- Is there a better way to buy USDT from INR with minimal fees?
- What platform do you use, and how much are you actually paying per USDT?
- Any tips to reduce costs—like choosing certain sellers, UPI vs bank transfer, or avoiding specific fees?

If anyone has a practical step-by-step method, please share. Thanks!

INCREDIBLE - June 19, 2026, 3:12 am

(Jun 19, 2026 02:05 AM)nothing002 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Hey everyone—quick question about converting INR to USDT (or other crypto) with the least possible charges.

I've tried Binance P2P, but I noticed there's still some kind of commission/spread. For example, they show 1 USDT ? 103 INR, but the current real market price is around 94 INR. That gap makes it feel like I'm paying extra.

So I'm trying to figure out:

- Is there a better way to buy USDT from INR with minimal fees?
- What platform do you use, and how much are you actually paying per USDT?
- Any tips to reduce costs—like choosing certain sellers, UPI vs bank transfer, or avoiding specific fees?

If anyone has a practical step-by-step method, please share. Thanks!

Crypto USDT is always 3-5 rupees higher in comparison to the prevailing foreign exchange rate. 103 is surely high, but you can filter out your preference in Binance P2P to find sellers selling at a better price.

In India, there's no other trusted platform except this Telegram group I can recommend, but you still need to do your own due diligence.

<https://t.me/CryptoIndiaUnited>

I'd say the 98-99 price is fair these days.

NOTHING - June 19, 2026, 8:45 am

(Jun 19, 2026 03:12 AM)INCREDIBLE Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Crypto USDT is always 3-5 rupees higher in comparison to the prevailing foreign exchange rate. 103 is surely high, but you can filter out your preference in Binance P2P to find sellers selling at a better price.

In India, there's no other trusted platform except this Telegram group I can recommend, but you still need to do your own due diligence.

<https://t.me/CryptoIndiaUnited>

I'd say the 98-99 price is fair these days.
thank you bro. I'll check CryptoIndiaUnited