Thread: Seeking OFM Partner for Established Agency Launch

Masters - June 19, 2026, 3:59 pm

Seeking a serious OFM partner. I already have a brand, agency infrastructure, contracts, creator systems, landing pages, and access to potential models, but I'm currently limited on funding. Looking for someone who can contribute capital, marketing, sales, networking, or operational expertise to help get things off the ground and scale. Long-term partnership preferred. DM me with your background and what value you bring.

I will say this offer is preferably for those with money and looking to flip cash, or those with experience in the field looking for a solid project you're sure you can help grow if the foundation is there.

More or less everything is prepared, all we need is capital, and to get working.

Still looking, please do not message me only to waste my time.

Have the intention to work.

This sounds great, I'm out of work at the moment so not ideal in the liquid cash market but very ideal in the time and sweat equity I could contribute.

My background is in sales & sales management, consider myself great at networking, and I've done some operations & systems building too; so it aligns great with me.

Before my professional career in sales I built a large discord server where I formerly used to coach people on an e-Whore script I made and sold packs & trained them hands on in calls on how to secure a huge influx in sales numbers.

I also helped build a call center where we hired people at a fair hourly rate to do chatting via SMS.

We should talk and see if there's anything I could contribute daily for the quality of life and acceleration of the agency or if there's anything ideal to take a workload off your shoulders.

Dm me!

That's wonderful, I am actually interested and will be reaching out. As an update, I've restarted work officially and will have funds to put up myself soon, as well as I have an additional investor lined up backing me so it looks good. I'd say the next step is to sign a model and begin operations.

I have recently started X and have a mass DMs panel so if you in the future want to venture into the X Mass DMs arena, my system will be live soon and start taking beta testers.
