Thread: discord mass reporting

i am wondering if anyone has discord mass reporting services for either a server or for a username, and how much would it be. has to guarantee that the user/server gets banned, might need multiple users.

There isn't really such a thing as a guaranteed ban. Anyone promising 100% is probably overselling. Discord still makes the final decision based on whether there's an actual ToS violation.

there are violaitons of the user 100% which strictly go against their policy of security. however, they dont have accsess to the messages to report, however their username/pfp and various messages of theirs have violated their polcieis. i ahve tried to report it on one account, however it just dosnet work.

I get what you're saying. If they're clearly violating Discord's ToS then they can definitely be banned. I was only pointing out that no service can guarantee a 100% outcome since Discord still reviews each report themselves.
