

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Best car for sleeper modifications

777 - July 3, 2026, 9:21 pm

If you had to choose any car that isnt already fast stock, then what would you do to it to make it go way past what it should. Basically as crazy as trying to make a hellcat minivan ?

Yakless - July 3, 2026, 10:43 pm

This probably won't be a popular answer, but I've seen F-150's absolutely fucking fly with some modifications.

777 - July 3, 2026, 10:55 pm

(Jul 3, 2026 10:43 PM)Yakless Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This probably won't be a popular answer, but I've seen F-150's absolutely fucking fly with some modifications.

im sure you can do some crazy builds with those, if you got a dodge with an engine that you cant fit under a stock hood, you already know its a beast?

Yakless - July 3, 2026, 11:23 pm

(Jul 3, 2026 10:55 PM)777 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) im sure you can do some crazy builds with those, if you got a dodge with an engine that you cant fit under a stock hood, you already know its a beast?

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=0eQVSsq6yls>

This is without swapping/building the engine

loadman - July 3, 2026, 11:28 pm

nissan patrol

mote - July 4, 2026, 12:54 am crown vic, many i4s, many honda, many nissan.

StemCell - July 5, 2026, 9:25 am

Any car with a B58

Or even cheaper like VQ37VHR motors in g37s, 370z.. they can handle high horsepower and compete with supercars on the road

_VOX - July 5, 2026, 10:24 am

It's always going to be a bmw 330d touring.

I'm a fan of estates so either that or some Volvo

indirectsyscall - July 8, 2026, 3:10 pm

honda civic shuttle

Mercury - July 8, 2026, 4:46 pm

The old Mitsubishi Galant VR-4's made excellent sleepers. I don't know if they still do, but they made alot of shit for those cars and no one ever expects to be gapped by a Galant.

Can - July 8, 2026, 8:13 pm

BMW M140i's, Audi S3 8Y & 8P, Honda Civic Type R, Seat Leon Cupra, Polo GTI