Thread: What Is One Childhood Memory You Will Never Forget?

Everyone has a memory from childhood that stays forever.

Maybe a family moment, a game you played, a place you visited, or a person who changed your life.

What is yours?

One of my funniest childhood memories was fishing with friends. We waited for hours and caught almost nothing, but we acted like expert fishermen

Fishing with friends sounds great, any activity with friends is something you should always cherish. More and more everyday I wish I could experience those kind of moments again.

For me it was getting a Xbox 360 for Christmas when I was in 4th grade. Words cannot describe how excited and happy I was.

Didn't know I was getting it, but my parents said I could open that specific gift Christmas Eve early. Been playing Xbox ever since.

Similar fishing experience, we were all shattered so we walked it back to the bus stop and we found a pumpkin tree otw home so we ended up picking some pumpkins and walked home with pumpkin instead of fish.

Fishing with friends is always fun. Where I live, there are lots of rivers, so we often spend our time by the river, and one of our favorite activities is fishing.

My favorite memories are mostly the family vacations we took when I was young.

Booting up COD MW2 on the xbox 360 and having a 6 man squad running all night

I have countless memories of my childhood that I'll never forget. My best friend and I were very much so troublemakers and truly embraced our youth in every avenue imaginable. I don't know, probably the entire day leading up to how we ended up befriending another good friend. TLDR; We pooled our money to get apple schnapps, got drunk in a neighbor's cornfield, befriended their daughter.

Those were the best gaming nights. I really miss those days.
